O'Hara Mill Research Project

The O'Hara Mill Research Project is underway. The project is funded by the Canada Works Program will be researching and publishing a history of Madoc in general and the O'Hara Mill in particular.

Project workers include director Sheila Hannon of Belleville and assistants Wendy Wallace of Belleville and Marian Moriarity of Madoc.

Sheilagh, who conceived the project, has worked as a guide at O'Hara Mill last season, as many of you will remember. She made many friends among the senior citizens at that time.

Part of the project will emphasize first hand accounts of events in the early part of the century. Anyone who has stories or anecdotes interesting facts or contributions to Madoc history are urged to help out. Contact Marion Moriarity at 473-2683.

Christmas Concert

Pastor Lawrence E. Mack of the Madoc Wesley-Free Methodist Church invites all to attend the performance of a Christmas play in the sanctuary of the church on Sun., Dec. 18 at 7:30 p.m.

Greater Than Gold, written by Pearl Neilson, is a two-scene play telling the nativity story from a slightly different angle. It focuses on the life of the inn keeper, Simon, whose greed for money almost keeps him from experiencing the event of the heavenly birth.

The 11 characters in the play have the inn as the setting for the first scene and the manger as the setting for the second scene.

Near the beginning of the second scene, a junior choir will sing O Little Town of Bethlehem and While Shepherds Watched. A closing solo will be sung by Mrs. Lillian Armstrong.

Practising for Sunday evening's performance began at the first of November. The performance runs about one hour.

Mr. Mack also noted that a special Christmas service will be held at the church at 10:30 a.m. on Christmas Day. The combined open session of Sunday School and worship service will feature several numbers by both junior and senior choirs.

Turkey Draw

Wed., Dec. 7 witnessed a good crowd of fun seekers trying their luck at winning a Christmas turkey. There were 11 turkey bingo raffles, six turkey dice rolls and three poker hand raffles. Luck recipients of two turkeys each were: Al Rone, Harold Francis, Gord Chapman, Terry Chapman, and Willard Doughty. Singles were won by Jim Irvine, Dan White, George Jones, Gerry Devolin, Ken Adams, Ruth Burnside, Lillian Nolaan, Irene Donaldson, and Joe Mallia. The Kinsmen raised a substantial profit which will be used to buy Christmas baskets this month for the needy in the area.

Calendar Updates

Beginning in January, the Centennial Calendar updates will be mailed every month to out-of-towners on the Centennial Committees mailing list. If there are changes or additions to the calendar please phone Gail Blakely at 473-4362.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ash celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Walter Danford on Sun., Dec. 4, 1977. Joseph son of Mrs. Lena Ash of Trenton and the late Thomas Ash, and Gladys, daughter of the late George and Elizabeth Adams of Madoc village were united in marriage December 1, 1937 by Rev. Ivan Kennedy in the United Church manse on east St. Lawrence St. The wedding attendants were present, Mr. and Mrs. Emie Wannamaker.

Joe, a carpenter and painter in the village is on his second term as village councillor, an elder in Trinity United Church and twice past master of Madoc Orange Lodge. Gladys is active in the UCW and LOBA.

They have five children - Maurice Ash of Madoc; Karen (Mrs. Ray Turcotte) of Marlbank; Betty (Mrs. Walter Danford) and Evelyn (Mrs. Bev Browning) both of Madoc and Robert Ash. They also have eight grandchildren. The happy couple received many cards of congratulations and met with friends and relatives from 2 to 4 p.m. In the evening a turkey dinner was enjoyed by the entire family.

St. Peter's Women's Club

The Christmas meeting of St. Peter's Women's Club, Madoc, held at the home of Mrs. W. Hill, was well attended.

The president, Mrs. T. Deline Sr. conducted the business. It was decided to purchase the candy for the Sunday School Concert to be held on December 17 and to cover the tables in the S.S. rooms. Mrs. Walter Armstrong offered to supply flowers for the church for Christmas. A letter was read from the Young People's Club asking the Women's Club to participate in the S.S. concert with a five minute number.

The report of the nominating committee was read by Mrs. L. Trotter: past president - Mrs. T. Deline Sr.; president - Mrs. W. Raynsford; 1st vice-president - Miss Lamoine West; secretary - Mrs. J. Burns; treasurer - Mrs. O. Weaver; devotional convener - Mrs. L. Trotter; pres-secretary - Mrs. J. Pitts.

Mrs. L. Trotter convened the program which was appropriate to the Christmas season.

Several scripture lessons were read and Christmas carols were sung with Miss West at the piano. Mrs. Trotter read a poem "The Stable" and a story "Come Let Us Go to Bethlehem". She told of the origin of "kissing under the mistletoe", Christmas trees and the use of the Star on the Tree.

Mrs. W. Bateman conducted a Christmas contest, Mrs. Hill being the winner.

Mrs. Trotter concluded the program by reading a story, "Yes, Virginia there is a Santa Claus". The article first appeared 50 years ago in the business section of the New York Sun in reply to a little girl's letter asking if there was a Santa Claus. It has appeared every year in the Sun and has been printed in many languages the world over.

Lunch was provided by the hostess and assistants, Mrs. R. McCoy and Mrs. J. Pitts. Miss L. Connor moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Trotter, Mrs. Hill and the lunch committee.

New Photographer Sets Up Shop In Madoc

by ROSS LEES

In recent weeks, a new business has been established in Madoc. Mr. Gary Barton has opened the "Seabreeze Photo Studio" above the old Cash and Carry store at the four corners of Madoc. Gary has decided to invest in the future of Madoc, through his business, because in his words, "I have lived in larger cities and towns, such as Kingston and Toronto, and I really enjoy getting back to the quiet relaxed life of the smaller community. I was raised in Madoc, and I have many of my friends around this area."

Gary first became interested in photography when he was going to school at C.H.S.S.: he started by taking pictures for the yearbook. He graduated from an Arts and Science course at Centre Hastings Secondary School and was President of the Students Association.

He continued his education at Loyalist College where he took a communications course, which involved mainly radio and television broadcasting, with photography as a secondary part of the course. At that stage of his life, Gary wanted to become a broadcaster.

After completing his education, Mr. Barton played in a rock music band called Backroad. He had been involved with the band before this, but at this point he began to play full time. He became dis-satisfied with this life, however, and joined the Toronto-Dominion Bank. While he was with the bank, he worked in Alliston, Toronto.

Throughout these years of indecision, Gary had become interested in racing. He raced snowmobiles and, occasionally, motorcycles; although he photographed motorcycles more than he raced them. He raced snowmobiles at every opportunity and had some success. In 1975 Mr. Barton raced in the Kawartha Cup: he placed second on the first day of competition. "Things just seemed to click, and I got lucky on the last curve and found myself in second place." After the race, Mr. Barton was understandably elated and had high hopes for the Sunday races. That night, however, someone broke into his van and stole his helmet and spare snowmobile track. Before he could race the next day, Gary had to go and buy another helmet. He figures that was just an omen of things to come.

Eventually, he did get ready for the race, and by the time the race was almost completed, he found that he was having a good race: he was in second place. Not wanting to lose the race from pushing his snowmobile too hard, he slacked off on the throttle. Unfortunately, his timing was bad, and another snowmobile passed him. Gary suddenly realised that he was still in a race, and again opened the throttle. At the next corner the other snowmobile saw a hole in the track, and tried to avoid it by slowing down and going around it. Gary could not swerve his machine to miss the other one and they collided. Both survived without serious injury, although there were some anxious moments for a while.

Racing had become a big part of Gary's life, and when he stopped racing he continued to attend races as a photographer. He has many photographs of snowmobile, motorcycle and car races, and even has slides of Canadian, Gilles Villeneuve. His loves of racing shows in the quality and quantity of his racing pictures.

Gary eventually came back to Madoc with the intention of opening his own business. He realized there was a potential market here, but he still continued to ask questions and investigate the competition in the area. He prepared himself for his goal by taking a business management course, a portraiture course and refresher photography course. It was well into the summer of this year before he figured that he was prepared to set his plan in motion.

He already had a site for his studio picked out. He had been in to see the offices above the old Cash and Carry at the corner of St. Lawrence and Durham. They were old and needed plenty of work, but he saw the potential for an ideal studio. There was a long, narrow room, which he now uses for his portrait and studio sittings. This room eventually will have a small waiting and display area.

After entering his second floor entrance, you find yourself in a spacious, tastefully decorated waiting and display area. Gary's office and studio branch off from the main waiting room, and each room had a comfortable, relaxed motif. Gary explained that a photo studio must have a relaxing, "homey" atmosphere, or the people become nervous and extremely hard to photograph. "It would be nice if more people would drop in and look at my work and studio, or just come in to say, 'Hello'." At the present time I don't have any signs up to tell people where we are, because I am still very busy remodelling the studio. "There doesn't seem to be enough time to get everything done!" Although Mr. Barton said there is a lot to be done before the studio looks like he wants it to, his studio is already very functional.

The display materials on the wall were mostly scenic and action photographs. Mr. Barton explained that he has some portraiture coming, but he is not sure when it will arrive. Gary also has some material on display at the Sandpiper Glass Studios in Belleville. Later on there will also be a display in the first floor windows below his offices. One of Gary's favorite pictures is of former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. Mr. Diefenbaker had arrived in Kingston in the Spring of 1977 for an interview on C.K.W.S. Gary was able to take part of his afternoon off from the bank, and went to the television studios and got the picture of Mr. Diefenbaker being interviewed. This picture will soon be on display at the studio.

Gary will mainly be doing weddings and portraiture, but he will try to fulfill the photographic requirements of the community. He also hopes to do some advertising and promotional photography: there will be a framing service offered for diplomas or pictures.

Originally, Seabreeze Photo was to have been in operation on November 1st, but the opening was delayed because the studio lights arrived two weeks late. Because of this delay, Mr. Barton feels that he has missed much of the business that the Christmas season would have supplied. The response to a photographer in Madoc has pleased him, so far. He expects business to pick up after he establishes himself in the area.

Mr. Barton enjoys being his own boss, but as he says, he finds on slow days he has a tendency to become panicky when the bills come in, and he has no immediate prospects of a way to make the payments. "You just have to jump in with both feet and make the best of it."

Royce Gerald Kelsh

Funeral service for Mr. Royce Gerald Kelsh was held from the Howden Funeral Home, Marmora, on Fri., Dec. 2, at 2 p.m. The Rev. J. Stevenson officiated and burial

He was born at Cordova Mines and was educated at Oak Lake and Cordova. He was employed by the Marmoraton Mining Company.

Mr. Kelsh was predeceased by his parents, Wallace Kelsh and the former Gertrude Ellis, his wife, the former Marguerite Robertson, and one brother, Reginald.

He is survived by two daughters: Carol (Mrs. Robert Moore) of Havelock; June (Mrs. Ray Hartin) of Bancroft; and four sons: Glenn of Bowmanville; Donald of Cordova Mines, Ronald of Peterborough and Elgin of Milton. He also leaves ten brothers and sisters: Bernice (Mrs. John Anderson), Cordova, Geraldine (Mrs. John Rose), Toronto, Evelyn (Mrs. Arthur Steenburgh), Campbellford, Doris (Mrs. Howard Cole), Havelock, Joyce (Mrs. James Cairns), Oshawa, Daisy (Mrs. George Roche), Cordova, Ruby (Mrs. Gordon Robinson), Cordova, Donald, Ajax, and Harry and Harold of Oshawa.

He is also survived by 17 grandchildren. Pallbearers were: Graham Bell, Leslie Bell, George Roche, Gordon Robinson, Edward King and Percy Ellis.

Edna Wood

At Belleville General Hospital on Sunday, December 4, 1977, Edna Wood (nee Blue) of RR5, Madoc died in her 74th year. Dear wife of the late Mac Woody, sister of Lloyd Blue of Madoc, aunt of Tom, Jim and John and Bill Blue. Mrs. Wood rested at the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc where services were held on Tues., Dec. 6 at 2 p.m. Mr. Dwight Nelson officiated. Interment was in Lakeview Cemetery, Madoc. Her four nephews, George Duffin and Norman Blackburn acted as pallbearers.

LOBA-LOL Christmas Party

LOBA and LOL 160 Lodge held their Christmas party on Tuesday evening, Dec. 6. Approximately 52 sat down to a delicious supper with turkey, dressing and all the trimmings. The children entertained the older folks while the ladies cleared the tables.

A short program was enjoyed. Morris Ash read 'Twas the Night After Christmas' and Ken Holland read 'In Amongst the Christmas Trees'.

Marjorie Holland did a monologue with Phyllis Creaser assisting her in playing Christmas carols.

Fruit boxes were given out by Morris Ash to the oldest, active members in the 160 lodge, who were Mr. French, Mr. Bill Ashe Sr. and Mr. Everingham.

The children were given a big surprise with Santa arriving while everyone sang Jingle Bells. Santa listened to their secrets and gave them gifts and candy. Santa wished everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. A good time was enjoyed by all.

The lodge would like to thank all those who made our Christmas party possible.

Management Stressed at Trappers' Workshop

Everything from wildlife management to fur handling was covered at the Ministry of Natural Resources Trappers Workshop in Madoc on Thursday.

About 75 trappers young and old, experienced and inexperienced, turned out to demonstrate their skills, ask questions and trade tricks; they also heard speeches from representatives of the Ontario Trappers Association and the ministry.

On the practical side there were demonstrations of trap and snare setting, skinning and stretching the skins. In the morning various trappers exhibited their preferred methods of trapping or snaring for beavers, foxes, otters, wolves. This was accompanied by a good deal of discussion and exchange of ideas. In the afternoon a similar process was followed with skinning and the stretching of the skins.

The discussion of wildlife management went on throughout the day but was focused most clearly by Gary Wright, a wildlife management officer for Tweed District, who addressed the workshop in the afternoon.

He pointed out that in one survey area near Parry Sound there had been 18 beaver houses counted in 1949, 254 in 1959 and 367 in 1969. "And this area is no different. We're experiencing the same population explosion." He had mentioned earlier that certain areas of Tweed District such as Marmora and Madoc Townships had the highest density of beaver population in Ontario. There are up to 4 colonies per square mile in these areas three times as many as is found in the far north.

The reason for the increase in the beaver populations is simple - good wildlife management. Unless beaver are harvested on a regular basis and the population kept relatively stable, the beaver will overpopulate, strip the of food and then die off through starvation and disease.

"If beavers are trapped out of a pond, there will be beavers back in that pond in another 2 or three years. If the beaver die out through overpopulation it will be 15 or 20 years before that pond is repopulated."

Mr. Wright used then example of a trapline in northern Ontario which covered 80 square miles and had not been harvested by the trapper licensed to do so. "In 80 square miles we found two live beaver houses - and 200 dead ones" - wholesale death due to overpopulation had resulted from undertrapping.

"For this reason I'd rather see trappers taking over their quota than taking under their quota," Mr. Wright said. He added that any licensed trapper - that is a trapper with a licensed lien on crown land - will have his license revoked if he fails to trap 75 per cent of his quota.

The Ministry of Natural Resources now has a system by which they can keep check on how much of their quota each trapper is bringing in.

Mr. Wright said that the ministry hoped to improve the accuracy of its beaver count by conducting aerial surveys of this district that would cover the area once every five years. This has already been done over portions of the district and many of the trappers will have aerial maps of their lines with the beaver houses marked to help them. In return they are asked to mark the maps, indicating ones the aerial survey might have missed and marking those dead that were believed to be alive.

Mr. Wright said that the survey was considered to be about 85 per cent accurate in most cases, but that this would be lower in very flat areas such as Lingham Lake in Grimsthorpe Township. In areas like this where there is a dearth of topographical landmarks it is hard for the aerial spotter to be exact.

Another matter that should be pleasant

Gary Wright, a Wildlife Management Officer for the District of Tweed shows one way of finding where to set the beaver trap. This trap - a conibear - is set just outside of the beaver house and the easiest and fastest way of finding where to set it is to jump in waist-high hip-waders, according to Mr. Wright.

George Thompson demonstrates his beaver snares, which is the only method he uses to get his 80 or so beaver per year. The advantage of this type of snare, according to Mr. Thompson, is that all you need to carry with you on the trapline is some wire.

Roy Young breaks the ice before demonstrating a bait-set type of beaver trap which he uses.

news is the fact that the fisher harvest will be up significantly in the area this year. Mr. Wright reported that the fisher population is in a boom due to wildlife management and that if everyone harvests their quota this season around 300 fisher furs will be harvested. This is up from only 34 taken last year. Mr. Wright expressed concern that the fisher not be overharvested but that at the same time the trappers reap some benefits from the restocking program carried out by the ministry.

Another point that Mr. Wright discussed, and one that has been a fairly prominent issue recently, is the whole question of humane trapping. He told the trappers that it was in their best interests to set their traps in such a way that they kill the animals as quickly as possible and do not maim or cause undue suffering.

There is presently a national committee investigating more humane forms of traps and all trappers were urged to send any ideas that they might have to the committee.

There was also an appeal by Cliff Richards, representing the Ontario Trappers Association, for Trappers to form area councils. He said that such associations make the trappers voice stronger. There is presently such a council in the Hastings area - although it is largely centered in North Hastings.

That council, along with the Kawartha Haliburton Trappers Council will be holding a winter carnival on January 21 at Silent Lake Provincial Park. There will be fur displays, trap setting competitions, snowshoe races and all manner of wintercarnival type events.

Trapping Statistics

Some statistics for the Tweed District: in the province there are now 58 registered trapline trappers, 391 resident trappers and 56 farmer trappers.

Total beaver quotas for 1976-77 were 14,700; total harvest was 10,109.

Trappers also harvested: 18,408 muskrat; 1634 raccoon; 413 mink; 295 colour fox; 271 otter; 142 coyote; small number of martin; fisher, squirrel, weasel, bear and other trappers in the area realized a total income from these furs of approximately $465,100.00. In Ontario there were 500,000 beaver harvested last year. At 26 per skin, it is represented $13 million. Over 1200 people are employed in the fur industry.

The pet corner

Gini is a five-year-old apricot poodle and is owned by Jane, Larry, Gregor and Murray Stickwood. She just loves to be photographed. Gini has been brought into Stickwood's Dry Goods store on Durham

St. since she was six weeks old and now has many little friends that come into the store to call on her. The next time you're at Stickwood's, look for Gini under the shoes.

Meat will not harm your cat and if he could he probably would eat nothing but meat. However this is not a balanced diet. Raw meat should really not be fed as it may contain harmful parasites, so be sure to cook it.

Egg white should be cooked at all times as the vitamin biotin that's needed in the diet can be destroyed if fed raw.

Dog food should really not be fed to your cat as it is made for dogs' tastes, also dog food fails to supply the dietary balance your cat needs. If you have a cat and a dog it is preferable to feed them their proper food at all times.

Cooked fish with bones removed is good for feeding but raw fish is not. Liver fed every day is not good as it can cause Vitamin A toxicity as cats can store excessive levels of vitamin A. This could be fed only two or three times a week.

Rabbits for breeding at Budd's Rabbit Land

BY NAOMI WAKAN

I hear so much these days of goats and geese and less popular forms of meat, that I was not surprised to be told of folks promoting rabbit.

Rabbit prepared for the market is already and skinned and has no fat layer.

showed me around. These rabbits have been purchased from Europe, the States and Canada and are very beautiful specimens. They came when they were babies and are prize-winning rabbits. The rabbits showed four different kinds of fur: the regular rabbit coat we all know, rex (which is like a plush carpet) satin and dressed in furs by the Indians, many gifts, fur rugs, and of course a plentiful supply of rabbit meat. Also, there are goods made by the blind. This has a special relevancy for Garnet himself is blind. He has been blind for about 18 years, having slowly lost his sight over five years. He only missed a few days' work and then returned to his job at Universal Sheet metal in Toronto. Garnet was the only blind machinist in Toronto. At one time he even handled a 70 ton metal punch press. One day Joyce read an article on rabbits and as they already had country property, they decided to leave Toronto and put everything into rabbits. A lot of the building Garnet did himself and in fact operated the farm the first four years whilst Joyce commuted from Toronto with the children. He kept the breeding records in Braille which Joyce later translated.

Their hard work and patience paid off for their ten bloodlines of rabbits now sell all across Canada and everything is flourishing. Garnet likes to be quoted as proof that the totally blind can become successful business men. His courage and cheerful philosophy have helped him overcome handicap.

The small store at Budd's Rabbitland had many interesting buys. They even had a Christmas tree decorated with ornaments made of rabbit fur.

Its meat is fine-grained and delicately flavored. Smaller animals can be fried and larger roasted. It has more edible meat per pound than other animals and a smaller body cavity than for example, a chicken. Rabbits don't take up much room and a good doe will produce ten times her weight of meat a year assuming two litters; a doe can produce as many as five litters a year, since they breed all year round.

The rabbit breeders I visited were Garnet and Joyce Budd of Eldorado. Their rabbit compound consists of the rabbit farm itself, a room of finely bred rabbits for public display, and the gift shop. The farm is made up of six aisles, 100 ft. long and three tiers high. It contains 4,500 does and sometimes up to 3,000 animals. The rabbits raised are New Zealand white and go mainly for research use in public health and the making of baby products. The New Zealand white were developed in North America and are suitable for research because they have lots of flesh and stamina.

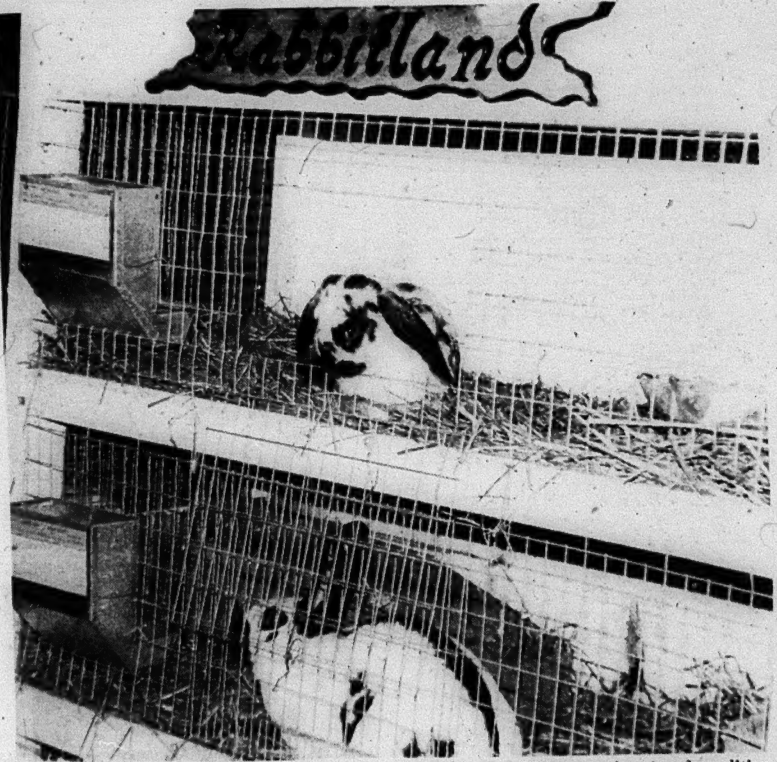

Garnet and Joyce's shop and fancy breed display was set up because people could not be taken in to see the rabbit ranch for fear of contamination. Joyce handles the fancy breeds in the show-room and she angora. Joyce combs the hair of the angora and is going to spin it and use the wool for knitting.

Some rabbits are so sensitive they cannot stand the stress of people continually coming through to see and touch them. Fancy rabbits don't have as much stamina as breeds such as the New Zealand white.

All rabbits that leave the shop, whether for breeding or as pets, are accompanied by detailed instructions for their health and welfare. Pets are not toys and children have to be taught to handle them well. The Budds make sure the rabbits are weaned and a feeding cup is given. Rabbits are usually good natured, but of course a mother with litter will defend them. Joyce handles the medical side and is so knowledgeable that vets often contact her when rabbit problems are brought to them. The prices of rabbits range from $5 for a cross-breed to $25 for an Angora.

The gift shop was opened last Easter and the Budds, who work 7 days a week are delighted to be able to socialize and work at the same time. By next spring the store will be three times as big and Garnet plans to build special outhouses with 'Does' and 'Bucks' on them. The store contains dolls

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere appreciation for the many cards, letters, floral tributes and acts of kindness shown to us, during the recent sudden loss of our dear brother and uncle, the late Clarence Farrow. Special thanks to the Madoc I.O.O.F. No. 179 members for their memorial service and to the other friends, who braved the elements and came to his funeral. We have many fond memories of Madoc and Moira Lake. We will try and carry on our friendships with the Madoc people. We are sure that is what Clarence and Lavina would wish us to do.

Again, we say "Thank you"

Marsh World

MUDPUPPY (Necturus maculosus) — Eight to twelve inches in length, this salamander spends its entire life in water. It is grey to brown in color with dark spots; the three pairs of frilled gills are red. Mudpuppies are found in the mud bottoms of lakes, ponds or marshes. Their food consists of insects, crayfish, mollusks, frogs and fish eggs. They are nocturnal feeders. Females lay upwards of 100 eggs which are anchored by stalks to the underside of rocks. The young hatch in about eight weeks and require five years to reach maturity.

Milk Improvement

The Quinte Milk Improvement Project, sponsored by the Ontario Milk Marketing Board has now begun in the Quinte area.

The purpose of the project is to effectively control mastitis, and in the end, increase the dollar return to the producer. A complete milking equipment evaluation will be done for farmers enrolled on the program, as well as a study of milking procedures, and when required, testing for mastitis.

Eric Johnston is the technician responsible for the program. A graduate of Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology, Eric is a former technician with Eastern Breeders Inc. Eric has been studying for the past several months with the various milking equipment companies.

This is the first time a project of this type has been tried by the Ontario Milk Marketing Board. It will run over a two year period: there are openings for 100 dairy farmers to take part.

Applications are being accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis. The producer must make his own application, which are available from the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food offices in Stirling, Picton and Napanee, as well as the Ontario Milk Marketing Board office in the Cheese Building, Wills Street, Belleville.

There will also be a study of milk samples from the three counties. A new technique, somatic cell counting, will be used. The results will be made available to all producers, whether they are enrolled on the Quinte Milk Improvement Program or not.

There is no direct charge for these services. Producers are expected to follow the recommendations given - this may result in costs to change the milking equipment, quarter sampling of individual cows, etc.

On the farm front

Rumensin

Rumensin has just been licensed for use in Canada. This drug is used in growing and finishing cattle rations. Tests show that rumensin will improve feed efficiency by 10 per cent. This means less feed is required to obtain a pound of gain.

Rumensin works in the rumen to increase the production of propionic acid which is more easily digested than the other acids present. More of the feed is used by the animal, requiring less feed to be consumed.

It is very important to mix Rumensin correctly. Rumensin premixes are available at local feed mills.

Specialty Cheeses

Cheddar may be the 'big cheese' in Canada, but Canadian cheesemakers are stepping up their production of other varieties. Last year they produced 105 million pounds of these other varieties, known in the trade as specialty cheeses. The cheeses ranged from soft camemberts to spiced goudas to pungent limburgers -- 44 different kinds in all. The main production was mozzarella (59 million lbs.), brick (14 million lbs.). The dominance of mozzarella is connected to the popularity of pizza and other Italian foods.

Quebec leads the provinces in specialty cheese production. In 1976, Quebec cheesemakers made more than 52 million pounds of specialty cheese, while Ontario producers made 45 million pounds and cheese factories in the other provinces accounted for a little more than seven million pounds.

Come to Church this Sunday

Christmas - for very few of us it is all fun and games, all joy and merriment. For many it brings both sunshine and shadow-mixed memories. Yet I wonder what it was that gave you the most joy last time. Goodness knows, there's joy enough in celebrating the coming of Jesus Christ for any man, and that in itself brought me so much happiness again.

But among the other events that go with the festival what do you prize most now, on reflection? Was it a prime, turkey like the man said? Did you get the wish you've been wanting for years? Shall you ever forget the children's faces when they opened their stocking at 6:30 a.m. or was it 5:30? Did someone remember you thought would forget?

I have presents that meant so much to me, I cherish so much the love that went with them. The present that will mean so much to me this Christmas will be having my son and daughter home from college life. For a short time we shall be together as a family, under one roof and eating meals together - that will be just great. I think of so many divided homes today, where the family is not a unit. Christmas will not be happiness and love, only loneliness.

That's where the message of Christmas comes in. A lonely man attended an evening carol service, heard a fresh of God's redeeming love. He decided to try and make it back home to his wife and daughter. He sent a letter to the clergyman of that church a few days later thanking him for his message and prayed that the church would continue proclaiming God's love and perhaps send another man home. A man re-united with family and home because the gospel was preached. A man so grateful, too, and a man who wanted others to find out the same joy that came to him.

Joseph and Mary went home to Bethlehem the first Christmas that ever was, and the Christ child came to them there. So the business of the church is that of calling men home - back to their father's house - back to the presence of Jesus. As the Shepherds from the Judean hills and the wise men from the east come seeking for the Holy Child so all of us, no matter our condition or problem, our loneliness or sorrow, seek and find that their is room in God's heart and home.

Be not like the Bethlehem inn keeper, having no room for Jesus. Rather let us this blessed Christmas tide, let Christ enter in to give us peace, joy and love. To each to your homes and loved ones, may the beautiful story at Christ's birth and purpose for coming to dwell among us be very real in each of our hearts. If you have never truthfully come to grips with the true meaning of Christmas, why not this year of 1977? Your Christmas will mean so much more to you, for you have received the greatest gift that has ever to be given to anyone.

Joy to the world! The Lord is come
Let earth receive her king,
Let every heart prepare him room,
And heaven and nature sing.
Go to church as a family this Christmas, give you gift to him that gift being your heart.

A blessed and holy Christmas to you all.
Canon J.H. Thompson

St. John's ACW Christmas Supper

On December 5, 1977, a Christmas supper was held at the Madoc Hotel. We all enjoyed a lovely turkey dinner.

When Mrs. K. Thompson showed slides of her past life as becoming a minister's wife and the hard work they both had to live thirty miles in the bush in B.C. while trying to raise a family.

It was a lovely evening. In closing we had a small meeting. All were in favour of giving money to the building fund so they could purchase two more tables and about 50 chairs. It was moved by Katie

Thompson and seconded by Betty Ross. It was also decided to buy a new snow blower. This was moved by Mrs. Gwen Danford and seconded by Betty Ross.

We believe this will help everyone involved with the UCW.

In spite of the terrible evening, 32 members came out to the dinner. We would like to thank Mr. Robert Bancroft and staff for the lovely dinner. Our next meeting will be Jan. 12, 1978 at the home of Mrs. Gwen Danford.

Specialty cheese production increased in all parts of the country last year. On a national basis, it was 16 percent higher than the 1975 level and more than double the amount produced in 1970.

Production in the first six months of 1977 was reported to be about the same as last year. Several new varieties that had not previously been produced commercially in Canada have appeared this year.

Although the number of varieties produced in Canada has been expanding in recent years, there is still a strong consumer demands for imported cheese. Last year, more than 200 varieties of natural and processed cheese were imported from 24 countries. The European Economic Community was the chief

Antique Alley

1. I have a water pitcher that I have been told is Basket Weave pattern. Can you tell me where it was made and when?

The Basket Weave pattern was made in the mid 1870's in the United States. It was made by both Cambridge Glass Co. and McKee Glass. It was made in clear, amber, blue canary and milk white. Any color is usually costs 100 per cent more than the clear.

2. I have recently had the rust and crud removed from some cast iron pieces that I have. What can I do to keep them from rusting again?

If the pieces are for decoration only, use store and iron polish. Follow the directions on the bottle and you will be pleased with the results.

If you plan to use any of the pieces for cooking, you must "season" them. You do this by coating the iron with grease or oil that has no salt, put them in the oven preheated to 400 degrees for twenty minutes. When they have cooled, wipe well with a paper towel.

Never wash cast iron cookware in very hot, soapy water. If you do, you will have to repeat the process.

3. Can a mirror that has brown spots in the glass be restored?

Yes, it can be re-silvered. Just be sure to have a reliable glass company do the job.

4. What is pewter?

The finest pewter was made from tin with a 20 per cent copper content. All pewter is an alloy of which the chief factor is tin. Pewter has been produced continually since Greek and Roman time. Know your Pewter or know your dealer before buying.

5. Are Christmas plates a good investment?

They were at one time; the earliest ones now bring more than a $1000.00. But now that everybody has gotten in the act of producing them, it is doubtful if we will see the market continue as it has in the past.

6. Is the orange Iris and Herrinbone pressed glass, depression glass or carnival glass? Each shop seems to class it differently.

That is probably because the trade books differ in their history. It is pressed glass to be sure, but most carnival glass is pressed glass. The exception to this might be some of the very early carnival that we call "soca gold" today.

The accepted definition of depression glass is machine made glass in colors or clear.

Since the marigold color is applied (or flashed) to the Iris pattern after pressing, I see no way that it can correctly be called depression glass.

It is late carnival and should be treated as such. If you have some of this glass, do not wash it (or any other carnival glass) in an automatic dishwasher. The harsh chemicals in the detergent will change the colour.

7. I have a two gallon crock marked "Picton C.W." in blue. Does it have any value?

Your crock was made in Picton, Ontario before confederation. There is one like you describe on a dealer's shelf in Toronto priced at $165.00. What it will sell for, who knows?

8. Are Occupied Japan items antique?

No, but highly collectable. The Americans occupied Japan for 8 years after World War II and all items made during this period had to be marked "Occupied Japan".

Like anything else made for a short duration, these items are being sought by collectors today. The prices are already quite high for an item as late as this. There is no doubt that the prices will go higher and higher as time passes.

If you plan to be around in the year 2000, you might like to know that the so called experts are predicting that the prices for Occupied Japan items will be so high that only museums and the wealthy will be able to afford them.

supplier, shipping some 30 million pounds. The principal varieties imported in 1976 were edam (five million pounds), gouda (four million pounds), swiss (three million pounds), havarti (two million pounds), feta (two million pounds) and blue cheese (one million pounds).

Crookston Store Closing

Having operated a general store in Crookston for the past 30 years, we wish to take life a little easier now, and regretfully have decided to close the business on December 17, 1977.

We would like to take this opportunity to say a very sincere "Thank you" to our customers who have patronized us so faithfully over these many years. We will always cherish the friendships formed and kindnesses shown to us during this time.

I will be continuing the mail service in the mornings and, unless someone purchases the business in the meantime, the balance of stock and equipment will be sold at a later date.

Parents as Partners in Education

For the past several years there has been an increasing desire on the part of both parents and schools that parents become "full-fledged partners in the field of education." That's a nifty phrase often found in educational journals - "full-fledged partners in the field of education" - but it's more than just a phrase. It's a thought that deserves the attention of every one of us, because when parents are full-fledged partners in the field of education, the students benefit. The students benefit a lot!

Let's take a look at some of the advantages students receive when their parents do become involved in the educational process:

The very example set by parents is a great lesson and a powerful way to teach. Albert Schweitzer said that example is the only way to teach. There's something powerful and contagious about example. When a youngster sees his or her parent engaged in an academic pursuit, that really registers. On the surface, the young person may put it down as "old fashioned" or out of step with the times. But deep down there is a respect and admiration for the parent who shows by example that school work and school activity are important facets of life. Perhaps the seeds of example may not germinate overnight, but in time, there will be a harvest.

When parents become involved in the school life of their children, the message is loud and clear: Education is a Lifelong Process. It doesn't stop at age 16, or when a diploma is awarded after 12 or 13 years of schooling. No, education is a lifelong process, and what better way is there to get this message across to our young than to get involved in the world of learning?

Another advantage of parental involvement is an improvement in communication between parents and children and between parents and school. With all the talk about communication gap, it behooves us to do what we can to close any needless gaps in communication. When parents become involved in the school lives of their children, there is nurtured the idea that "we're on the same team." And that certainly aids and abets the communication process.

Parental involvement in the school usually increases a child's desire and motivation to learn. (And by "Child" I mean one who is in either elementary or secondary school.) "Children want to learn, normally. They keep trying as long as they feel grown-ups are with them. When they see that parents are disappointed and disapproving they begin to give up. If you get involved in school problems, try to keep your mind on the lesson at hand; trust your child's will to please you and his need for your approval, and remember children want to learn as much as you want to see them learn."

Community support of the school is more assured with parental involvement. When the community does not really support the school, the students are the losers, for they read any lack of support as putting a low value on education.

Visit the teacher before problems develop. And it is always good to reinforce something that the teacher is doing with your child. Human nature what it is, it is only natural that teachers will try even harder when parents show an active interest.

"Teacher efforts usually increase when parents show positive nonthreatening interest."

But parental involvement doesn't really begin in the school. It begins in the home. The Coleman Study, which examined 600,000 students and a number of other research studies, have made one point abundantly clear: high achievers in school come from families which are warm, friendly, stimulating and encouraging. Another study has shown a strong relationship "between child achievement and what parents were doing in the home." The home environment, the study said, is crucial to a child's success in school.

How can we assure that the home environment will nurture success in school and in later life?

Avoid emotional strain and friction at home. Research has shown, for example, that many students who are poor readers come from homes where there's quite a lot of emotional strife.

Don't demand that your son or daughter be number one in the class. Such a demand gives rise to needless and harmful anxiety and to fears that the parents will be disappointed and angry. The pressure to be number one can readily confuse a young person into equating his or her very being with marks on a report card.

Keep noise and distractions at home to a minimum, especially when it's homework time. Radio, records, TV and other distractions all hinder and block the ability to concentrate.

Try to set a definite time for homework. Setting definite times for appointed tasks is one of the cardinal principles set forth by time management experts.

Don't overcrowd your child's schedule. I know of some young people who are booked solid with all manner of appointments, training and whatnot - every day of the week!

Just as a carpenter needs the right tools to ply his trade, so does a student need the proper equipment to carry on his studies.

If help is needed on a homework problem, work with, not for, the student.

Show enthusiasm for learning. Enthusiasm is contagious.

Visit your library. Encourage your children to visit the library. Make sure they have a library card.

Refrain from criticizing the school in your children's presence, because such criticism will only undermine the school and induce a loss of confidence in and respect for education.

In the event of a student's prolonged illness, it is wise to obtain the various homework assignments. A simple phone call to the school can make this happen.

Control the TV. Study after study has shown the harmful effects of TV. Violence, the prostitution of values, the defilement of language have all been foisted on the public, and I say it's an outrage. Oh, of course, I fully acknowledge that there are some worthwhile programs, and for this I am mightily grateful.

So let us together - encourage and hearten our young people when that is warranted. It will pay handsome dividends! Besides the academic and physical fitness aspects of school life, the school can - and indeed should - get certain messages across to every student. But the school will fail - yes, fail - if there is no reinforcement at home. What are those "messages" I'm talking about? Well, there are 5, and here they are:

1. You, the student, have been gifted with a lot of hidden talents and abilities, just waiting to be developed. You might liken yourself to a diamond in the rough.
2. You are the one who is responsible to develop your potential talents and abilities. Everyone is responsible for his or her own life, and the sooner we accept this fact, rather than blame others when things go wrong, the sooner will we develop into whole, mature persons.
3. The more talents and abilities you develop, the happier you will be.
4. You can rise above your mistakes.
5. Service to others - SERVICE to others - is a highway to growth and happiness.

As Dr. Terrel Bell, once said: "The Key to Dramatic Progress In...Education is Rededication To Learning In The Home." Please remember that the doors of our schools are always open to you. If you ever want to volunteer or participate in any of the school programs and activities, or if you'd ever want to discuss, and suggest new ways for parents to become involved in the school, remember that we are just a phone call away.

Long-time CHSS teacher retires

Centre Hastings Secondary School regrets that it will soon be losing a fine teacher, an understanding guidance counsellor, and the head for many years, of its Business Education Department. Mrs. Jean O'Riordan will be retiring at the end of December, after teaching twenty-seven years in Madoc.

Mrs. O'Riordan was raised in Prince Edward Island and, after attending Prince of Wales Normal College in Charlottetown, returned to her home town, Summerside, to teach in the public school there. Through extra-mural work, summer schools, and some time in residence, she obtained her B.A. from Mount Allison University in Sackville, New Brunswick.

She returned to Summerside to teach for another year, then moved to Montreal where she taught public school, and, later, high school. However, she wished to teach in Ontario, especially Toronto and therefore applied and was accepted as an out-of-province teacher in Madoc High School. A year later, in 1948, she married Felix O'Riordan of Madoc, and thus ended her original Toronto plans.

Reply

Dear Mr. Hees,

I read with interest and some concern your letter which was published in the issue of Nov. 30, 1977, in which you condoned the recent actions of the R.C.M.P.

Your logic, as I see it, is that the ends justify the means, even if those means involve breaking the law. That's not logic.

I believe that you are doing a disservice to suggest to your constituents that the police, whom we look up to for enforcing the law, are free to break those laws with impunity themselves.

The law says, for example, that it is illegal to commit arson. The law does not say that it is illegal to commit arson except if you are a police officer carrying out your job. So long as the law applied to all persons, everyone, including the police must obey it. If police are free to break the law, those laws do not merit the respect of all citizens.

Yours truly,

Don B. Rogers

kindergarten, she returned to Madoc High School as a supply teacher, and then part of the regular staff. Meanwhile, she attended summer school at O.C.E. to qualify for teaching in Ontario.

When the commercial option and special commercial course at the high school level was introduced, she attended numerous summer school courses to qualify, eventually obtaining her Commercial Specialist certificate. She was appointed Commercial Director when the composite school, C.H.S.S. was built. She has also taught Commercial Vocational summer school courses in Ottawa.

Outside the classroom, Mrs. O'Riordan has been active in the Teachers' Federation, drama, and as the advisory to the Student Council. She has served as Commercial Counsellor for the area, and president of the District Association of Business and Commerce Directors.

Early in the New Year, Mr. and Mrs. O'Riordan will be celebrating Mrs. O'Riordan's retirement by cruising the Caribbean and Pacific.

Ringette: a new game for girls

By ROSS LEES

Ringette has been in Madoc almost a year, yet many people still do not know about it or harbour prejudices against it.

The game was invented for girls as an alternative to hockey in 1965 by Mr. Sam Jacks, Director of Parks and Recreation in North Bay. Organizers suggest that, because it is a girls game, it's not considered exciting and has not been well-publicized. On the other extreme, are the people that, without seeing the game, judge it to be not lady like enough. But the proponents of Ringette think that neither of these attitudes is fair: rather it is a sport suitable for girls, that lacks the violence and body-contact of hockey and puts more emphasis on speed, dexterity and understanding of the play.

Ringette is played with a ring and hockey sticks without blades, similar to the equipment used in floor hockey.

The teams line-up exactly like hockey, on ice marked in the same way but player mobility is much different while the centres are still allowed to roam the complete ice surface, forwards cannot enter their own defensive zone and the defense cannot cross the oppositions blue line; this adds speed to the game. To avoid confusion as to who is playing what position, the defense have red sticks, the forwards have blue sticks and the centres have white sticks. No player is allowed to skate across either blue line with the ring; it must be passed across the line.

The equipment used is similar to hockey, although not nearly as extensive because of the lack of body contact. The goalie uses a standard hockey goalkeeper's stick and may wear hockey goalie pads. Helmets, mouthguards and some form of gloves are mandatory for all players.

The rules stipulate that everybody must see action. Each of the eleven to eighteen players on a team must take a shift in each of the two twenty minute periods.

In Madoc, the game was introduced last year when Mr. Ray Broadworth brought two teams down from the Ottawa area, and played an exhibition game. As the game progressed, time was called and the rules and finer points of the game were explained to the crowd. This year, Madoc would like to travel to the Ottawa area and show the team's improvement.

Mr. Bev Browning took the first steps in organizing ringette in the area. Karen Jones took over when Mr. Browning stepped down, and has been working hard at organizing a successful house league in this area. It was hoped that four teams would be put together this year, but there are only two. Karen plans to put the league in the Ontario Ringette Association, which would entitle them to referees and coaches clinics. Better turnouts would warrant the clinics.

The two teams this year are being sponsored by Pigden Motors and Burt Jones Limited. Competition is keen and teams are well balanced when all the players from each team attend. Unfortunately the sweaters for the teams have not arrived, and it is often very hard to keep the competition motivated. About eighteen girls comprise the two teams and their ages range from eight to 16 years of age.

After watching this unique sport for the first time, I find myself a bit confused by the rules and the methods of play. I did, however, enjoy the game enough to want to back and see more. The girls are amazingly good skaters, and it is very entertaining to watch some of the little tricks they have picked up. Next Saturday, December 17, the Madoc ringettes are holding a ticket draw for $100.00. The draw will be held between two and four, which are the regular ringette hours.

Hill And Valley Riders

Henry Whiteman of RR3, Madoc was the winner of the side of beef raffled off by the Hill and Valley Riders Club. Mrs. Evelyn Ervine of RR3, Tweed drew the ticket on Wed., Nov. 30. The hat donated by Groves Saddlery as a prize for selling the most tickets was won by the Robinsons.

A pot luck supper was held at Hazzard's

Corners on Nov. 22 with many members attending. A general meeting was held after the delicious supper and it was decided that we would not meet again until March. At that time we will open our new season with a bus trip to Quarterama. Following the meeting Jane Robinson showed two very interesting films.

by SONNY OSBORNE

This past-Saturday saw the tightening of the league standings as the blacks finally won a game. They downed the undefeated orange team by a 6-4 score with the final buzzer. Single goals for the blacks were scored by Brennan Devolin, Paul Hagerman, Mark Graham (also with two assists), Chris Daniels, Keri Rosnuk and Craig Rosnuk. David Nickle also had two assists. The orange team got goals from Tim Willemson, Peter Ringleman, and Tom Sloan with two goals and one assist. The orange team were without their regular goalie but the black coaches, Jim Daniels and Wayne Hagerman, felt that it was their inspiring pre-game speech and excellent coaching strategy that caused the victory.

The second game was a sound defensive game with the greens taking a 1-0 lead on a goal by Brad Love, only to have the blues tie it on a late goal by Walter Pitt. Bob Bronson filled in as goalie for the blues and helped them gain the tie. Coach Armstrong will definitely have to get his boys psyched up for the next game.

After three games the leading point getter is Tim Willemson followed by Brad Love, Kevin McCoy and Tom Sloan.

The orange lead with four points, followed by the greens and blues with three each and the blacks are coming on with 2 points. The games this week are: 8:00 a.m. - Orange vs. Black; 9:00 a.m. Black vs. Blue.

Ski cross country this winter

by ROSS LEES

Now that winter seems to be here to stay, winter sports will be a major source of enjoyment and relaxation. One of the fastest growing winter sports is cross country skiing. The reasons for the present popularity are that it is a relatively inexpensive sport to take up and the exercise is the best that you could get anywhere and at any time. You can be out on even extremely cold mornings getting exercise that is probably as good or better than jogging, and be doing it in pleasant surroundings.

I visited Baker Valley Chalet, ten miles east of Kaladar, and was pleasantly surprised about a sport that I had thought to be expensive and very hard to master. I think what impressed me most was the friendly atmosphere and the amazingly pretty countryside that comprises the background for these trails. An artist would be able to paint many interesting pictures in this area.

The chalet is owned and operated by Mr. Ross Baker, who has worked long and hard to see this dream come true. He started thinking of skiing in this area twelve years ago. His original idea was for Alpine or down hill skiing. From the chalet, you can still see where one hill was cleared, and the poles of a ski tow as stark reminders on another hill. Mr. Baker continues to keep these ideas in the back of his mind, but at the present he wants to concentrate on his cross country courses. When he was considering Alpine skiing, he had applied for various government grants but was continually "turned down or turned off", by what the grants offered. He figures that his time was completely wasted in applying for these grants.

Until five years ago, Mr. Baker was still considering an Alpine skiing area and it was at that time that he built the present chalet. Three years ago he switched completely from Alpine to cross country skiing. In the beginning he had five miles of trails, but the following year he increased to eleven miles of packed, groomed and grooved trails. A lot of the fun has been taken out of skiing for him because he has to spend so much time on a skidoo grooming the trails. He gave me the impression that he hates most things mechanical, but that may be because the ski-doo was broken down while I was there. Mr. Baker was in the process of repairing it himself, but he definitely would rather have been on the trails skiing. "The good thing about the business getting bigger is that I may be able to hire someone to do the grooming and repairing of this ski-doo." He expects to double or triple the usage of his facilities this year.

Next year, Ross expects to build a one hundred unit chalet and hopes to draw people from as far away as Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa. At the moment, people come from about a sixty mile radius. The present chalet is adequate. It has a place to rest and get warm, an equipment rental area, with about sixty sets of equipment in different sizes, and a small canteen where you can buy hot drinks and hot dogs. Mr. Baker expects the chalet to become crowded with his projected increases this year. "The early snow will mean a lot to the business this year". He is probably one of the few people who is truly happy to see this much snow so early.

Next year, the chalet will be a 100-unit motor inn.

Mr. Baker felt that the best way to write about skiing was to give it a try. I told him that I didn't have any equipment, but he assured me with sixty sets of different sizes of equipment on the wall, he could find something that would fit me. Reluctantly, I agreed to try.

First, I was shown a little bit about choosing my equipment. The boots, he said, were a matter of personal choice, depending on how much you wanted to spend. He said that even the cheaper boots are quite adequate and comfortable. For skis, he personally suggested wooden skis that you take care of yourself. He thought the newer fiberglass skis don't give you quite as much control over the elements. With the wooden skis, you apply the wax that is good for that day's temperature and snow conditions. The wax gives you enough added control, if applied correctly, to ski straight up a hill instead of sidestepping to the top. At this point, I was shown how to apply the wax and then smooth it off with a piece of cork. This step seemed quite easy, with the only serious problem being that you must be careful not to get bunches of wax on one area of the skis. It must be applied evenly. This is done by drawing a stick of wax over the undersurface of the skis. The poles for your skis should come up to about your armpit, and should feel "comfortable."

I was now ready for the experience of a lifetime, and I was really glad that there weren't too many people around. I was told that if you could skate, you could ski. This isn't altogether true, but it may have helped somewhat. Long strides and gliding with each stride is the theoretical method of cross-country skiing. For myself, who might not be as co-ordinated as others, this was much easier to say than to do.

Fortunately for me, a novice course was the nearest, so I decided to tackle that first. With a little encouragement and much laughter from behind me, I stepped on one ski with the other one and fell down. The first thing you learn when skiing is how to pick yourself up. After a couple of these maneuvers, I did manage to get mobile, among cheers of delight from behind, and I thought I had skiing mastered. Again my dreams were shattered.

As I built up speed, I suddenly realized that the trail veered to the right. I again found myself face down in the snow and looking for the person who moved the trail.

After more than a little trouble and unkind thoughts, I again began my skiing lessons. I kept my speed down and worked on my technique for the next few hundred yards. I found myself enjoying the easy gliding motion, although I still had some difficulty with my corners. Again I become slightly overconfident and built up speed coming down a slight hill, and someone threw an obstacle in my path. At the bottom of the hill was a creek about fourteen inches across with a light covering of ice. Now I learned how to stop: If you pass through water on skis and hit fresh snow on the other side, at a relatively fast

Mr. Baker expects to double or triple the use of his facilities.

The scenery around the chalet and trails was breathtaking after the new fall of snow.

Safer snowmobiling starts with a driver training course.

This is what Ontario recommends for snowmobile safety.

Snowmobiling has become a way of life for many Ontarians, because it's a healthy, enjoyable sport. Also, it's often a necessity in remote areas or during emergencies.

Now you and your family can learn snowmobiling skills from the experts, through the Driver Training Course offered by the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs (OFSC) in conjunction with the Ontario Safety League and your Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communications.

The course is designed for youngsters aged 12 to 15 and persons 16 and over who don't have an Ontario Motor Vehicle Driver's License. Graduates receive a proficiency certificate that must be validated as a snowmobile operator's license at any MTC driver examination centre for a $2.00 fee.

For full details about the OFSC Driver Training Course, contact OFSC Driver Training Office, R.R. #1, Jordan Station, Ontario L0R 1S0

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to thank all my friends who sent cards, flowers, gifts & visited me while I was a patient in Campbellford Hospital. A special "thank you" to Bill & Ruth Darrington, Lynne Hudson, Lois Henderson & Mr. & Mrs. Dean, Havelock Rebekah's Lodge, Dr. Rosen, Dr. Mohindra, nurses of Campbellford Hospital, especially the night staff, Jean Shewchuk. 5

I would like to thank relatives, friends, neighbours, clergy, fellow employees of small motors, for the lovely flowers, cards & visits during my stay in hospital. Also, thanks to nurses & doctors for their good care. Jean Sedgwick. 5

I would like to thank all my friends & neighbours for all their kind offers of help to my wife, & all the lovely cards sent to me while I was a patient in Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks to Reverend Howard & Mrs. Mustard, Monaghan & Parkin, John Rothnie. 5

A sincere thank you to everyone for the lovely cards, flowers, fruit & visits, when I was a patient at Belleville General Hospital & since my return home. A special "thank you" to my family & also to Mr. & Mrs. George Devolin for many kindnesses shown, also to Dr. Dosaj & Dr. Derry for their good care. James Forbes. 5

THE family of the late Stanley McInroy wish to extend their sincere appreciation to friends, relatives & neighbours for their many acts of kindness, floral tributes, cards, donations to the Cancer Fund, Heart Fund, Gideon Bibles & Red Cross. Special thanks to Rev. J.A. Howard & Rev. A.H. Perry for their comforting messages, Penny Wells for her lovely solo, the ladies who served & provided the lunch, Drs. Grant & Briggs & the nurses who gave such wonderful care; also the Howden Funeral Home for their efficient services. Many thanks to all & may God bless you! The McInroy Family. 5

WE would like to thank all our neighbours & friends for their thoughtfulness in holding a party for our family. The gift of lamps was very much appreciated & will be put to good use. We are all very grateful. The Johnston family, Bob, Audrey, Nancy, Ian & Heather. 5

In loving memory of our family:
Nelson Wellman, who passed away Dec. 13, 1973.
George Brooks, who passed away Dec. 14, 1973.
Stella Roraback, who passed away Aug. 13, 1968.
Jean Wellman, who passed away June 17, 1970.
Always remembered by their family, Brooks, Peters, Bannons. 11

ELLIS, Orvie - In loving memory of my dear husband, who passed away Dec. 3, 1973.

Though on earth you are no more,
You did not go alone.
For part of me went with you
The day God called you home.
It's lonely here without you
I miss you more each day.
For life is not the same to me
Since you were called away.
Wishing today as I wished before.
That God had spared you many years more.
Meta Ellis. 11

DEADLINE - Classified & display ads, News - 11 a.m. Mondays.

MEMORIAMs

ELLIS - In loving memory of a dear husband & father, Charles Ellis, who passed away Dec. 7, 1972. Your presence is always near us.

You were the husband & father, your loved ones will never forget.

Ever remembered by wife Lila, son Ivan, daughter & son-in-law Bernice & Art. 11

KAY - In loving memory of our daughter & sister, Karen Jean Kay, who went to be with Jesus Dec. 12, 1976.

"Ever gentle, ever sweet" because she loved her Lord & lived to please Him. We miss her, but God knew what was best.

Remembered by her Mom & Dad, Donna & Allan, & brothers, Kevin, David, Philip & Brian Kay. 11

McGARVEY - In memory of Matthew & Delbert McGarvey, Dec. 14, 1952 & Dec. 29, 1971.

We think of them in silence their names we off recall. There is nothing left to answer.

But their pictures on the wall. Sadly missed by wife & mother & family. 11

MORRISON - In memory of our Mother & Grandma, Carrie Morrison, who passed away suddenly Dec. 20, 1963.

A wonderful picture woven in gold. Treasured with love we gently hold.

No tears can show, no words can say, How much our mother meant to us.

God took her home, it was His will, But within our hearts she liveth still.

Bruce, Doug, Myrtle & families. 11

WELLMAN - In memory of George Wellman who passed away Dec. 13, 1976.

Not dead to us who loved him, Not lost, but gone before, He lives with us in memory And will for evermore.

Lovingly remembered by wife Cora & family. 11

Try cross country skiing this winter

speed of about one mile per hour, you will again find yourself eating snow. The water and snow freeze instantly to the bottom of the skis and it is extremely hard to keep the skis momentum equal to your forward motion.

Now I was several hundred yards away from the chalet, and I found that there was no longer any "glide" left in my skis. I was determined that I would not walk back to the chalet with the skis over my shoulder, because that would be admitting defeat, and I wasn't too anxious to hear anymore of that laughter. Somehow, I did manage to get back to the chalet without further embarrassment, but I did notice that the second half of my trip was much harder than the first. It was at this point that I realized the use of the novice course. They are trying to teach you the problems you might encounter on the longer trails. This way at least, it isn't too far to walk or to crawl, or whatever way you choose to return to the chalet.

I had to stop at this time but it was not because I wanted to. My attempts at skiing had been discouraging in a way, but they had also piqued by enthusiasm. I am looking forward to returning sometime, and taking on the eleven mile course.

OTTAWA and Small Business

Tomorrow is Almost Here

by JIM SMITH

This is an essay on the future, a subject of particular appeal to erstwhile writers since, by the time anyone can prove the predictions wrong, it's too late to matter.

Futurists have gone out on a limb with variable results. Dr. James Lockhart, a biologist at the California Institute of Technology, for instance, suffered a stroke of bad luck when he predicted, in 1959, what would happen by the end of the next decade. "Ten years from now," the good doctor pronounced, "you will be able to sit on a lawn that needs no mowing and reach up to pick a normal-sized peach from the low branches of a dwarf tree." So much for futuristic infallibility.

The following thoughts are presented without the slightest suggestion of their infallibility. If, 60 years from now, they are shown to be wrong, I don't want to hear about it.

As we've noted here before, it will soon be possible, through electronic hookups, for any worker not involved in manufacturing to work at home rather than commuting to an office. Intercity conferences will be held without the participants ever leaving their own boardrooms.

This technology is closer than you may think. The Canadian Federation of Independent Business, tired of inefficiencies in the Post Office, has been investigating a device which will transmit photocopies of printed documents over telephone lines — almost instantly.

The implications of this sort of communications break-through are staggering. Besides signalling the beginning of the end for the Post Office, virtually all business travel will become obsolete. Society will change dramatically.

Industrial empires — think of the effect on the auto industry or hotels or airlines — will tumble. New fortunes will be earned overnight; imagine the profits to be earned from a wrist telephone, for instance.

Cities could be bankrupted as workers move far away from their "offices". On the other hand, if they can survive the loss of assessment, cities would also become more humane, free of dependence on the automobile.

The rural areas will be deluged by demand for serviced residential land. In the short run, it will be impossible to provide enough serviced land. But, in the long run, rural Canada will cease to be the poor relation of urban Canada.

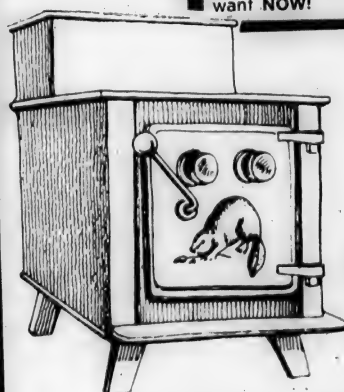

Entrepreneurs will find the rapid changes exhilarating; hidebound traditionalists will be staggered. The next generation of dominant business leaders will be those who accurately predict the changes and act accordingly.

But, above all, the changes will drive home one point which is so often overlooked in our society: politicians do not create change; rather, they are controlled by changes beyond their grasp. The fortunes of our cities will not be affected by the actions of the urban political leaders.

The future is coming. Like it or not.

Madoc Review

Centennials Tie Lakefield Chiefs

On Friday, Dec. 16, the Lakefield Chiefs, the top team in the Eastern Ontario Junior D League, travelled to Madoc to play the Madoc team and were fortunate to salvage a 4-4 tie.

The teams traded goals: Rod MacDonald of Madoc opening the scoring, assisted by Wayne Brough and Stephen Lawrence. Lakefield scored the tying goal around the midway mark of the first period.

Lakefield had jumped into a 3-1 lead in the second period when Harley Willemssen scored his first of three consecutive goals, assisted by Andy Roy and Ed Grills.

Harley came back to open the scoring in the third period to make the score 3-3. Assists went to Bob Willemssen and Ed Grills. Madoc took the lead at the 11:04 mark of the final period when Harley completed his hat trick on a pass from Andy Roy.

It looked as though the local squad would hand Lakefield their first setback of the season but the Lakefield team showed their poise and experience as they hemmed Madoc in their own end for the last five minutes. Madoc's hope of victory was shattered when a Lakefield right winger shot the puck home with only 17 seconds remaining in the game.

This was one of the best hockey games of the season and gives the club a two-game streak without a loss.

The next home game is on Fri., Dec. 23 at 8:30 when Madoc hosts the Colborne Mustangs. Madoc and Colborne have split the two previous games so this should make for a good match.

An unidentified Madoc player flips a backhand towards the Lakefield net. League leading Chiefs were lucky to salvage a tie with the Centennials

Eldorado UCW Holds Christmas Meeting

Twelve members of Eldorado United Church Women met Dec. 7 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer in Bannockburn.

The president, Lois Blackburn opened with the reading of a Christmas prayer.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given; correspondence read, and various items of business discussed.

For the programme Alma Moorcroft used prayer and a sermon "Let's Keep Christmas" by Peter Marshall, with a background of quiet Christmas music.

A number of carols were sung and each member told briefly of a most memorable Christmas.

Isabella Shaw and Alma Moorcroft each had a Christmas contest to tax our wits and memories.

Lois closed the meeting with prayer. Then came the time of exchanging gifts and lunch was served by Dora Palmer, Audrey Chamber and Mary McCann.

Ada Adams: a fitting Centennial Queen

by ROSS LEES

On November 19, Madoc chose its Centennial Queen - Miss Ada Adams, a senior citizen, who, according to one account is "...not quite as old as Madoc". This is unusual, of course, but then it may well be said that Miss Adams will make an unusually good representative in this very important year for Madoc.

Miss Adams is known to most of us as a teacher of Latin and French in Centre Hastings Secondary School, but she has done many interesting things in her life besides teaching. She was born on a farm about twelve miles northwest of Cornwall, and into a family of eight girls and one boy. She was the seventh daughter. One sister presently lives in Bridgenorth, and the rest still live near Cornwall. Two sister also became teachers; one was a nurse and one a dressmaker. Her brother was a farmer and later became a carpenter. He is now retired. Miss Adams fondly remembers the farm every time she drives to Cornwall. Highway 401 now cuts right through where the buildings used to stand. "I remember a few of the trees that stood in the barnyard and that is how I remember where the buildings stood."

Before the war, Miss Adams was a clerk for the Department of Transport. She got her call to go into the navy as a censor. While she was in the navy, she censored the French mail because most of the other people didn't have the patience to read it. She spent most of her time in Halifax and just recently returned to visit that city. It has changed drastically since the war and she says that Halifax has been given a "facelift" by the provincial government. "The city looks much newer and brighter than before." While Miss Adams was in Halifax, she actually found the office that she was working in during the war. "It has been painted and changed into a rather expensive little restaurant, but it is the same building." After V.E. Day, Miss Adams was sent to Vancouver where she spent the remaining months of her military life. She finally got her discharge from the navy because, after the war, she just wanted to return home.

Miss Adams took up her teaching career and found herself in Temiscaming, Quebec. She enjoyed her stay there because it was a small community and the people had to make their own amusement. There were always parties and dances and people had an amazingly good social life for a community that small. However, there were also some serious drawbacks to this position. The school was privately owned by the paper company in Temiscaming, and therefore, the time that she worked at this school did not go towards her retirement. Also, being a company town, the company made the rules and paid the salaries. Miss Adams did not like the atmosphere that this created so she decided to come back to Ontario to teach. She had planned on moving around when she started teaching, and after this she tried to move after every couple of years. She taught in such places as Cornwall, Burkes Falls, Grimsby and Prescott. Miss Adams arrived in Madoc in 1962 and taught here for six years.

After retiring in 1968, Miss Adams decided to take a trip around the world. On this trip, which lasted seven weeks, Miss Adams especially remembers the Holy Land, but she got to see many countries and their different customs and atmospheres. Some of the countries she has visited are: France, Holland, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Norway, Sweden, Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii, Mexico and the United States. On her trips abroad, she feels that she has many good pictures of her trips and a few that aren't so good. "Photography is only a hobby with me, but I do enjoy it very much." Miss Adams uses a Konica camera and has had a wide angle and telephoto lens, but she says, "I have too much equipment to carry around now". She belongs to a travelogue and uses her pictures mostly in this capacity.

When Miss Adams returned from her trip around the world, she became involved in the senior citizens, church work and the Women's Institute, of which she is now secretary-treasurer. When I asked her if she had any trouble adjusting to retirement, Miss Adams replied: "On the contrary; I wonder how I ever had time to teach! I was ready for retirement because I prepared myself by teaching only about 60% of the time near the end of my career. Now I have time for my sewing and I am in charge of knitting, in this area, for the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary. Miss Adams indeed seems very comfortable with her retirement.

Since being elected Centennial Queen, Miss Adams has received many letters of congratulations from all over Canada. The most impressive letter was from Kelowna, British Columbia, from a student that Miss Adams taught over thirty-five years ago. Her former student had read an article in the "Vancouver Province" and decided to write to Miss Adams to see if it was the same person. Miss Adams realised who it was as soon as she saw the signature. Articles have also appeared in such papers as the Hamilton Spectator, the Belleville Intelligencer and the Cornwall paper. Miss Adams also received a letter from four "ex-pupils" in the Cornwall area. She still receives Christmas cards from some of her students but she has really enjoyed hearing from these people who have been out of her life for so long. A message was sent to the Canadian Press, and reports have been made on C.B.C. Radio and T.V., and Miss Adams thinks this is why so many people know that she has been chosen as Centennial Queen.

Miss Adams has now been in Madoc for fifteen years and I asked her some of the changes she had seen in Madoc. "The biggest change has come in the high school. When I arrived there, it was staffed by seventeen teachers. Later on the school enrolment went up to 1600 students and sixty-two staff members. That was a startling change in a very few years."

Some of the events coming up that the centennial Queen must attend are the New Year's Eve Ball and the Winter carnival. The queen must be available at all times so Miss Adams has decided not to plan any trips for this year. She expects to devote as much time as is necessary to her new post. "For our centennial year, I would like to see many former Madoc residents come back to visit, and help join in the celebrations". Miss Adams feels that most people who have lived in Madoc, even if only for a short time, have many fond memories of the friendliness of this town, and she would like to see events take place that would bring some of these people back to Madoc.

Miss Adams finds sewing an engaging hobby

New year's Resolution: improving the Review

We're making our New Year's Resolutions early this year at the Review. We're looking for ways to improve the paper and one solution we're going to try is changing our deadlines.

Starting with our first issue of 1978 we're asking all our correspondents - including the press officers and secretaries of the various clubs, organizations and sports groups, as well as the writers of such regular features as the church column - to submit copy and reports on any event - meetings, games, whatever - that happen up to and including Thursday night by Friday at 1 p.m. The present news deadline of Monday at 11 a.m. will be changed to 9 a.m.

To explain why we're making this change, its best to describe our present system. As things now stand we produce the papers on Mondays - we start at 8 a.m. and never leave before 10 p.m. Normally its after midnight and sometimes as late as 2 p.m. before we drag ourselves home, which is a long day, and, as the day wears on, we become more and more inefficient. After 12 or 16 or 18 hours the quality of the paper suffers. Lately we've been getting complaints - some of them justifiable - on the number of typographical errors in the paper. This is not due to the incompetence of our proofreaders or typesetters, or is it due to laziness or lack of concern on our part. Rather, it's due to an inefficient system. So, we're changing it.

The deadline changes mean that more copy is coming in before the weekend and more of the production work can be done either Friday afternoons or on the weekend. This will reduce our Monday hours and spread out typesetting, proofreading and other jobs over a longer period, making us less apt to make mistakes.

A second change in the quality of the copy we receive from people - not in content, but in form. Firstly, we prefer to have it typewritten, but not everyone has easy access to a typewriter and we can accept this. However we will require that the copy be:

- 1) printed or legibly written;
- 2) double spaced (this includes typewritten copy);
- 3) written in dark ink - (not in red or light coloured ink) and;
- 4) written on lined 8 1/2 by 11 paper.

Lets go over these individually. 1) printed or legibly written: this is self evident, but don't overestimate the ability of someone who has never read your writing to be able to edit or typeset it easily. Take pains to make it clear. Often things that don't come out the way you put them in - particularly spellings of names - are results of us not being able to interpret what you've written.

2) double-spaced - this not only adds to legibility but makes the copy easier to edit and correct. If the material isn't double-spaced - even if it is typed - correction and editing are hard to insert and typesetting made difficult.

3) written in dark ink - It's a fact that red, light blue or green ink are far harder to read than blue, navy and black. It's also a fact that we edit in red - for contrast - and special instructions and editing marks are often overlooked if the copy has been written in red.

4) written on lined 8 1/2 by 11 paper. If you don't have some, we will supply it to you. Half pieces of paper, steno pad paper, oversized paper, brown paper bags, and pocket notebook paper are all hard to typeset from, easy to lose and therefore not acceptable.

These requirements are not as stiff as those traditionally required in late gradeschool. They will make our jobs easier, the operation of the paper more efficient, and ultimately improve the quality of the Review. We hope you will co-operate with these and the new deadlines.

This is a good time too to thank all the people who have been so good in submitting material, and keeping us informed. The more people there are helping us to help make the paper a real line of communication in the community the better off we are. Thank you very much for your past and future help and co-operation and have a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

IAM: Development through awareness

The Institute of Metaphysics : they built many of the buildings

Just past the Black River Road, not far from Madoc along Highway 7, lies an institution that many Madocians feel is a long way from their lifestyle- the Institute of Applied Metaphysics.

Here there live forty to fifty people who constitute a small community unto themselves. They live and, for the most part, work at the institute and, apart from buying food and other goods, they have little to do with Madoc. Lately, this has changed a little. One girl from the institute was a candidate in the recent Centennial Queen Contest; two others were the only entries- and necessarily, winners of the adult section of the talent show that accompanied the pageant. The institute also entered a float in the Madoc Santa Claus Parade, and it has applied for a special week in Madoc's Centennial Celebrations next year.

This all indicates an intent for the institute to become more involved in the community of Madoc. Gail Sklaspy, a public relations person for the institute, says that this is only partially true. "Some of it - like the girls who were in the centennial queen contest- were representing us, the institute. The people in the talent show were doing it for their own enjoyment and experience. They went there because they wanted to do it as individuals."

This, Gail pointed out, is in keeping with the institute's philosophy of self-development and learning through openness to experience.

And this philosophy in turn is a key part of what makes the institute of metaphysics tick, and what makes the members feel they have something to offer to the world at large.

What is metaphysics? The word itself comes from two Greek words meta means above and physics denotes the physical.

The study of metaphysics is concerned with developing that part of a man which does not represent itself physically- this includes psychology, theology, philosophy and science.

This development extends from a study of these subjects to the more esoteric aims of developing what Gail referred to as "extra senses".

Gail contends that all of us have extra-sensory experiences in every day life. Intuition, which everyone possesses to some degree and many people- particularly women- rely on quite heavily is an example of a sixth sense. While many of us accept the idea, we approach it rather warily. The metaphysician tries to explore it deeper and gain more control over it.

Another extra-sensory quality which Gail says that she possesses is the ability to see auras. The aura is a force field which exists around the individual and changes colour and shape according to mood and state of mind. Recently the Soviets have developed a camera able to photograph the aura and what was once considered "metaphysic nonsense" becomes widely accepted as scientific fact.

While the development of such extra-sensory talents- connection with the meta-world or spiritual world above is the aim of members of IAM, they also recognize the fact that they live in the real world and what they call the "dual" nature of existence- which is of course a belief that differs little from Christian concepts of body and soul. This is represented by the little man represented on their logos- with his feet planted firmly on the ground, he is open to the vibrations coming from above.

The Institute is primarily concerned with learning and teaching. Besides this centre- which mostly deals with the administration- there are two schools operated by IAM, one in Quebec and one in Saskatchewan. These are intensive courses where students live in and learn- firstly to look into themselves and then to study the philosophies and religions of past and present cultures. Many members of the institute are active in their own churches as well.

These courses are expensive and many people find it hard to find the time to take them. Gail said that the institute is working now to have seminars in other places where people could be introduced to the institute's teachings and explore them intensively over three or four days.

The institute was originally founded by Winnifred Barton 13 years ago. Gail feels that, having passed the ten-year mark, the institute has a certain stability and a foundation to build on. Winnifred Barton is still the president of IAM and as a writer and lecturer has done much to promote the institute and its concepts.

Under her the institute is divided into four departments each with its head and assistant manager. Gail, for instance is in the public relations department but on any given day she may act as a secretary, a cook or teaching or studying.

Why did they choose this location? Apparently Mrs. Barton was coming along the highway, liked the place and asked if it was for sale. The owner agreed to sell, on the condition that he be allowed to live there in the summer, which he still does.

The IAM people have made a number of changes- building some structures, refining others, and they are still in the process of improving. The physical setting of the institute is attractive- comfortable and is scenic. In the summer the Institute grows its own garden. People live in apartments as families or individuals- although some things, such as vehicles, are group owned and group maintained.

Since the main aim of IAM is to teach, Gail wants people to feel free to contact the institute, come out and talk to someone, such as herself, and perhaps proceed from there to taking courses and becoming more involved. The IAM number is 478-3510.

The IAM logo depicts a man or logos with his feet planted on the ground and his hands stretching out to the vibrations of the universe.

Young Canada Works Programme

Applications for Young Canada Works Projects will soon be available from the Job Creation Branch of Canada Manpower.

The Young Canada Works Programs is designed to reduce student and youth unemployment by enabling organizations and groups to sponsor projects in areas of community needs. The projects run over the summer and applications must be submitted no later than February 6, 1978.

Projects are sponsored by groups such as schools, service clubs, recreation department and social service groups. Projects should not compete with existing services and should provide worthwhile service to the community.

There are four specific program criteria:
(1) Programs run for a maximum of 18 weeks between May 1 and Sept. 1, 1978.

(2) They must provide a maximum of three jobs for six consecutive weeks.

(3) All persons working on the project must be students or unemployed youth and be referred through Canada Manpower.

(4) Wages for the project are $138.00 per week for the project managers and $106.00 per week for other employees.

Projects last year ranged from conducting canoe training sessions to historical research, from operating a summer play school to sponsoring a music group to tour parks.

HOLIDAY WEEKEND

With Christmas Day and Boxing Day coming up this weekend, the five newspapers of Cembal Publications will be publishing one day later than usual and will be coming out on Thurs., Dec. 29. The deadline for all news, display advertising and classified advertising will be Tues., Dec. 27 at 11 a.m.

Bad weather and school attendance: a difficult problem

On Thurs., Dec. 15, one of our bus drivers started her car at 6:45 a.m. and proceeded to drive over the back roads of her route to make sure conditions were safe for venturing out later with her 72 passenger bus. That morning she returned over the same roads at 7:30 to pick up her students.

Weather conditions with our Associate School Group can vary from Marlbank to Flint to Deloro to Springbrook. Township ploughs are usually on the roads 3 or 4 hours before buses if conditions are bad. Sanders appear at daylight to assist. Years ago only a few buses brought students to our school while today 19 arrive daily. In many cases the bus was owned and operated by the same person; today bussing students is big business and operators have a great deal of money invested in their fleets. Perhaps they are more cautious today to venture out in bad weather with these expensive vehicles? Although road maintenance has improved, some roads are still difficult to negotiate with steep hills, sharp curves and little room for passing.

Our drivers are in a very delicate position. If they cancel they are often criticized, if they run, some parents are critical because they feel the roads are too dangerous. If a driver chooses to cover his route and has an accident, someone must answer. I have heard people say, "If I can drive to work, why can't the buses run?" It's one thing to risk your safety and another to risk the safety of children from 30 to 40 families.

For students and staff who do get to school on these days there are real advantages. One of our teachers spent an hour with a student last Wednesday and managed to clear up some problems in mathematics the youngster had been having all term. Students enjoy being with different teachers and classmates for the day. Teachers can review and drill skills with small groups. Marking, changing a bulletin board, preparing seatwork, planning lessons, meeting with other teachers are a few other payoffs for those who can make it to work on snow days.

Our school board's policy states that all staff must make a sincere effort to get to their school during inclement weather. A loss of pay can be expected by those who don't.

The disadvantages of snow days are quite obvious. Teachers cannot go on to new skills when most of a class is absent. In many families both parents work and have to make other arrangements for someone to supervise their children.

As long as we choose to live on this part of our planet, snow days will be a reality. Some elementary school educators are suggesting we use some of our professional activity days to make up for the time lost. These activity days are very valuable to us however the idea is worth considering. Could a compromise be reached whereby some professional activity days are used to make up for the loss of teaching time and additional P.A. days added at the end of the following June or opening in September? This could help family holidays as well. Would parents be willing to have their children walk 2, 3, or 4 miles to central pick-up locations everyday, thus reducing the difficult distance and expense of today's bus routes? Someday we may be able to carry on instruction for all grades at home via television, radio or telephone services. If teachers are prepared to see that all children have standby assignments at home for snow days, will parents be prepared to see that they are completed?

If common sense and safety considerations continue to prevail, Bad Weather Days will always be handled well in the Centre Hastings Associate School Group. S.E. Palmateer

Antique Alley

More and more questions are coming in asking that a value be assigned to a prized article of the winter. It is simply not possible to do this in a column like "Antique Alley." So much more information is needed than can be included in a letter. We will discuss some of the things that go into evaluation, and maybe this will help to clear up some of the confusion.

Many people tend to think that the older an item is, the more valuable it is. This is simply not true in many cases. I saw this morning a reliable Depression Glass Publication that listed a cobalt blue butter dish in the Royal Lace pattern at $250. This glass is approximately 45 years old, yet you would be hard pressed to find a better dish made 100 years ago that would be priced this high.

Why is something so new priced so high? There are many reasons. The old law of supply and demand is as true in antiques as it is in any other field. If at the time of production the market was flooded, it will take a longer lapse of time for the value to rise. As with the Royal Lace butter dish, many were made in crystal and pink and the same book lists them at $20. But since not as much was produced in Cobalt blue well, you can see what happens to the price.

Why do collectors collect some items in preference of others. That is the "64. question". Many people like to collect the rarest pieces in a category. Since there is not enough to go around, the prices begin to skyrocket and it is not long before the price has far outdistanced older items in the same category. If you want to build a collection in your favorite field, why not start with the more plentiful items. You can build a beautiful collection that will grow in value without getting involved in the highly competitive market for the rare items.

Another thing that affects price is location. Prices are different in different sections of the country. Prices are always higher in the most recently developed areas. This is natural because the new pioneers couldn't carry everything they owned with them and therefore most of the antiques that are there today were imported from the older areas. Prices are higher in Canadian West than in Quebec, and Ontario for example. And have you ever priced an antique in the Yukon or Northwest Territories? Believe me, "thar's still gold in them thar hills", but today it is above ground.

The same applies to furniture as to glass. Some of the newer antique furniture is bringing higher prices than some of the older furniture. Have you priced lately an oak bow front china cabinet? They bring more today than the old breakfronts of 100 years ago, and yet they belong to the late Victorian and Edwardian period.

A better example is furniture of the Art Deco style. This style started in 1925 and continued to the early depression years. As with all Art Deco, reds were used lavishly in the furniture. The finish on the furniture tended to be light (maple, light oak or pine); the interiors or legs or even drawer fronts would be red. It was not produced over a long period of time and when the owner got tired of the colour he would simply paint the price.

Today, collections of this style travel far and wide to find a piece in the original and will hock their souls to buy it. So if you have a piece, don't consider it just as used furniture because you bought it when you were first married or because it was one of Aunt Sue's garish pieces. And Above All - don't paint it. To command the price it must be in the original condition.

One of our readers wrote to say that she had a vase that list in Unitts price guide for 45. She had offered it to three different dealers and not one of them would approach the list price. This is not surprising to me. The prices listed in all guides are retail price, and collectors basically know the price. No dealer can afford to pay the list price. He had overhead to pay, he has to consider a return on his investment, and he too has to pay rent and buy groceries.

Another thing is that the list price are for pieces in mint condition. If there is a chip or crack or missing piece, the value is much, much lower than the list price. Many or even most dealers won't buy damaged glass at any price.

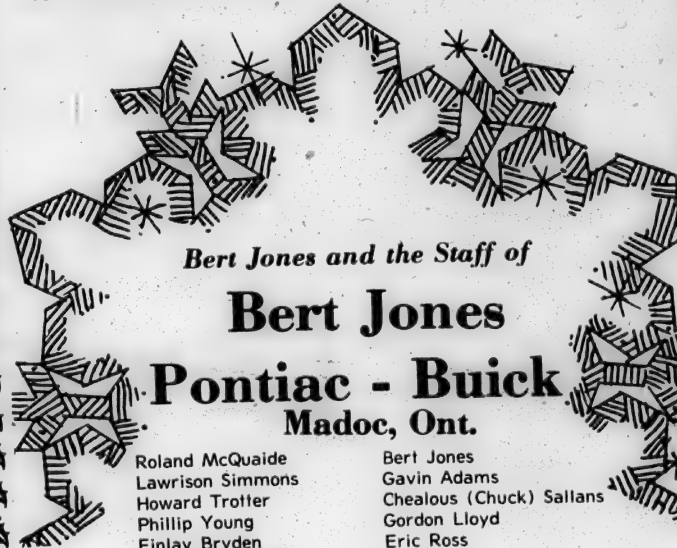

So you see there are many factors involved in determining value. It is so complex that one cannot try it in a newspaper article. But keep your questions coming and we will try to answer those of general interest in future columns.

If you have a question that requires a personal response, please mail it to "Antique Alley", P.O. Box 451 Madoc, Ontario K0K 2K0 with a self addressed stamped envelope and we will reply directly.

Club 473

By MRS. WALTER WANNAMAKER

The Senior Citizens Club 473 enjoyed a turkey dinner Dec. 14 at 12:30. It was catered by the U.C.W. There were 79 present with the ministers and wives joining the Senior Citizens for the occasion.

Following the dinner the president welcomed all, then opened the meeting with a poem, "The Christmas Legend". Each minister was asked to speak for a few minutes. The Senior Citizens have been invited to attend a fashion show and see the colored pictures taken on the Franklin Smith Tours. Refreshments will be served. This will be held in Madoc Secondary School Dec. 29, from 1:30 to 4:30.

Senior Citizen's Christmas Party

By MRS. WALTER WANNAMAKER

The Senior Citizens at the residence on Wellington St. held a Christmas party Dec. 13, at 7:30 in the Common Room. We were sorry not to have Mrs. James Shaw and Mrs. Bill Kellar, who are patients in Belleville Hospital; also Mrs. Fred Mitchell who has gone to visit a daughter in Pennsylvania for the holidays. We had one visitor, Mrs. Mary Ward.

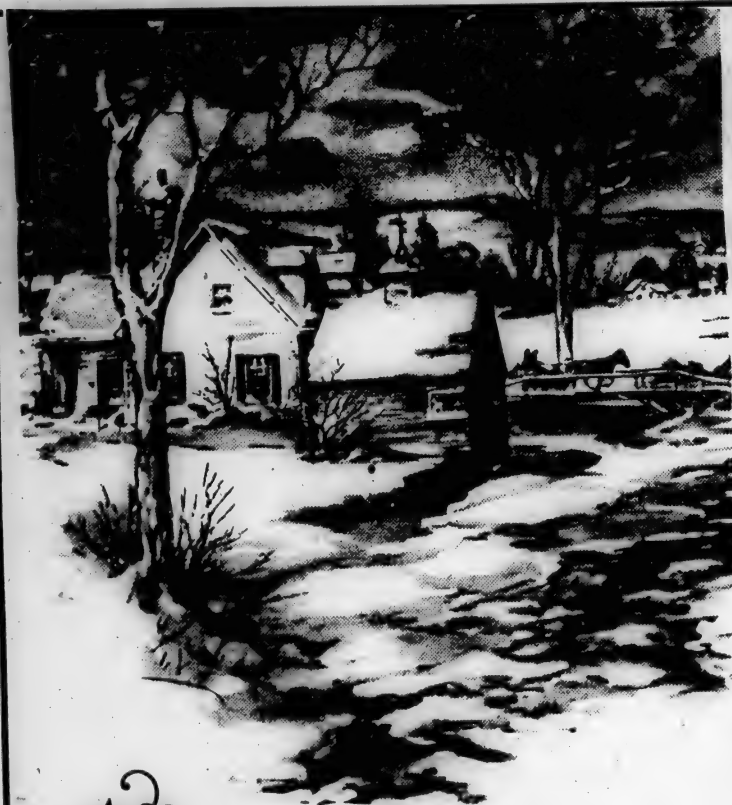

Christmas carols were sung followed by a program. Mrs. Ward read "One and only You". Mrs. Sadie Yearwood read "True meaning of Christmas". Mrs. Mary Whiteman had a reading on "Winter". Mrs. Mitts had a recitation "Mary had a

Mrs. O'Rourke asked Mr. and Mrs. Johns to come forward for a presentation of a gift for their faithful service to the Senior Citizens' Club. The presentation was made by Jennie Broadworth. Mrs. Johns presented a gift to Mrs. O'Rourke for her work for the past two years. The secretary, Mrs. Johns, the treasurer, Mr. Johns, and the reporter, Mrs. Walter Wannamaker, all received cheques.

Christmas carols were sung with Mrs. Donly at the piano and Miss Ada Adams assisting. The U.C.W. were thanked for the sumptuous dinner and pictures were taken of the dinner guests and the workers. Gifts were distributed around the tables. The next meeting will be Dec. 28 with a bag lunch.

Little Lamb", which was very numerous. Mrs. Evelyn French read "When the Bells Ring Out". Mrs. Ella Devolin read "Star of Destiny" and "The Miracle Road". Mrs. Langavin gave "Christmas Card Weather". Mrs. Thelma Jones had two contests. Mrs. Viola Wannamaker read "Christmas of Long Ago". Mrs. Mary Whiteman read "The Little Gray Mouse".

All enjoyed singing Christmas carols and a dainty lunch followed the giving out of the presents by Mrs. Mary Ward. The Senior Citizens of the residence will be entertained by a church group Tuesday evening at eight o'clock.

Christmas greetings

In the spirit of an old-fashioned Christmas we extend best wishes to all. We hope you, and your loved ones share in the many old-time joys and blessings of the season.

Get well wishes to Mr. Jan Brouwer who is a patient in NOMC National Defence Medical Hospital, Ottawa.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Wm. (Marg) Scott is able to be home from Kingston General hospital where she spent some time.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Jean Meeks and Mrs. Gwen Jackson who has been on the sick list with a great many others in our district.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the remaining family of the late James Allen Meeks who passed away Dec. 5, 1977 in Belleville General hospital.

Looks like old man winter has really decided to hit us all full force. In this area it dumped several inches of snow last week.

Mrs. Rita Brouwer and daughter Miss Janice Brouwer spent an evening recently with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meeks and family.

Madoc WI Meeting

The December meeting of Madoc Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Warren Hill on Fri., Dec. 14 at 2 o'clock. The president, Mrs. Wm. Raynsford, welcomed 21 members and 3 visitors. The roll call was an exchange of Christmas gifts.

Christmas carols were sung and a very interesting Christmas programme was presented by Mrs. Mary Forestell, Mrs.

Irene Gordon and Mrs. Mary Moorcroft. Mrs. Anna Carman described an interesting manner the entertainment provided them in Kenya while attending ACWW.

Thanks was extended to all participating by Mrs. Lottie Bailey.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants Mrs. Sharon Phillips and Miss Loreen Connor.

Wilson's - The Store With A Choice

er Ontario WI Meeting

The annual meeting of the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario was held in the Lord Simcoe hotel, Toronto December 5th-9th, 1977. The president, Mrs. Herb Maluske, Chesley, welcomed thirty two Senior and two Junior Board Directors. "It is the effect of every blade of grass that makes the meadow green". Every branch member is a most important link in the total organization.

Silver Jubilee medals were presented recently to past president, Mrs. Harvey Noblitt, Ottawa and the president Mrs. Maluske with the engraved certificate in honor of the Queen's Silver Jubilee.

Miss Molly McGhee, director of the home economics branch, Ministry of Agriculture and Food, said the County Home Economists are being asked to speak at many meetings, but 80% of their time is devoted to the 4-H programs.

A million dollars worth of help is given by W.I. members all over Ontario in their volunteer leadership of the 4-H and Senior Leaders Training courses.

Mrs. Harvey Houston, the P.E.O. stated the Women's Institute is truly an education organization--over $126,500. was spent for those purposes. Many local and community projects, benefit from their generous overseeing--in excess of $180,000. Mrs. Houston completes a six year term and her successor is Mrs. John Brown, Washago.

The Erland Lee Home report by Mrs. Austin Zoeller, New Hamburg, stated that 1,416 people visited the Home during W.I. week June 6-10th. F.W.I.O. own this historic place situated at Stoney Creek.

Mrs. Maluske attended the 15th Triennial Conference of Associated Countrywomen of the World in Nairobi, Kenya, Africa. The theme was "Building for Tomorrow".

The general assembly of the United Nations has proclaimed 1979 International Year of the Child. The objective is to make the world realize the child as its most precious resource. The next Conference to be held in the Federal Republic of Germany.

At the African Conference, the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada's president, Mrs. Beilish, following consultation with delegates, pledged support for a new landrover as a gift to Lesotho. The original one is worn out. The F.W.I.C. Convention will be held at the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon from June 21-29th 1979.

Mrs. R.C. Walker of St. George, who has been F.W.I.O. Tweedsmuir History Curator for 23 years reported there are 1300 copies of Historical Books in Ontario. She visited all the Districts in the province in 1959-58. She was also responsible for introducing, 15 years ago, the compilation of House Logs. Mrs. Walker was presented with a Life Membership in F.W.I.O.

Mrs. Russell Campbell, Iona Station, stated the 30th Officer's Conference will be held at the University of Waterloo, May 2,3,4, 1978. Mrs. Beilish, F.W.I.C. President, will pay her official visit to Ontario. The conference will be for treasurers and secretaries.

Officers elected were: Honorary president, Miss Molly McGhee, Director of Home Economist, President, Mrs. Clarence Diamond, New Hamburg; Sec.-Treas., Mrs. Earl Morden, Rodney; Public Relations Officer, Mrs. John Brown, Washago; Officer's Conference Sec.-Treas., Mrs. Russell Campbell, Iona Station. Standing Committee Conveners, Mrs. Donald Caza, Lakefield, Mrs. Robt. Moore, Simcoe; Mrs. Cecil Bell, Brockville; Mrs. Sam Koski, Fort Frances; Mrs. Herb Maluske, Chesley. Tweedsmuir Curator is Mrs. Fred Howe, Embro.

Mr. Robert B. Carbert, manager of the Ontario Agriculture Museum at Milton, discussed the potentials of the W.I. Hall situated on this location. Thursday evening, the Board of Directors were entertained to dinner at the Royal York by the Hon. W.G. Newman. This evening of fellowship, with the Ministry of Agriculture and Food staff and other guests is much enjoyed. The meeting adjourned Friday, with the president presenting this challenge: "The fields ahead abound with opportunities to be grasped, emergencies to be met, tasks to be done and duties to be accepted". May we always be helped to use what we have learned from our mistakes to build a stronger, better foundation for the future.

Best wishes and a very special thanks to all our friends.

MUDPUPPY (Necturus maculosus) — Eight to twelve inches in length, this salamander spends its entire life in water. It is grey to brown in color with dark spots; the three pairs of frilled gills are red. Mudpuppies are found in the mud bottoms of lakes, ponds or marshes. Their food consists of insects, crayfish, mollusks, frogs and fish eggs. They are nocturnal feeders. Females lay upwards of 100 eggs which are anchored by stalks to the underside of rocks. The young hatch in about eight weeks and require five years to reach maturity.

Use caution snowmobiling this winter

by RAY MACLEAN

Fresh new snow signals the start of the exhilarating and popular sport of snowmobiling. Caution! This winter pastime can suddenly turn to danger if safety rules are not observed.

According to Traffic Sergeant Jean DesLauriers of the Peterborough OPP, "There seems to be some confusion as to what these safety rules and regulations are concerning snowmobiles, and the public must be made aware."

Sergeant DesLauriers urged people to understand how their machine will handle under all conditions, freshly-fallen snow to ice.

He emphasized that accidents involving snowmobiles are often caused because "people just don't realize the capabilities of the vehicle".

Under the Motorized Vehicle Act, all snowmobiles must be registered with the Ontario department of transport.

If you operate a snowmobile on a highway, you must be insured in accordance with the Insurance Act.

To drive a snowmobile on a public trail, you must be at least 12 years of age and hold a valid drivers licence or a motorized snowmobile licence.

Albert Greenhalgh of Havelock is the only qualified instructor in this area who teaches a course for people who wish to acquire their snowmobile licence.

The provincially-sponsored course involves safety practices, rules and regulations under the law, and classroom theory on proper operation of a snowmobile.

In order obtain the certificate, the applicant must pass a test after completing the six-hour course, and according to Mr. Greenhalgh, "to date, every student has passed the exam."

"People have helped by donating their livingroom or a building", he said, "and the course will be held anywhere in the local area as long as there are around 15 people and a location to hold the meeting."

Mr. Greenhalgh advised snowmobilers to "stay on organized and marked trails for the safest rides."

Jack Wenzel, president of the Havelock Snowmobile Club, said there are requests "just about every day" for information on where to obtain a snowmobile licence.

He is also organizing the meetings about the course. "Many of the 108 members of the Havelock club have received their licence by completing it," he said.

The Kawartha Tourist Association offers pamphlets containing valuable information on how to prepare for the trail and how to get back safely without accidents.

Emergency tools such as a screwdriver, a pair of pliers and an extra starting rope could come in handy if a breakdown occurs.

Waterproofed and insulated garments keep out the cold and wet and make a more comfortable ride.

Be prepared to get back by carrying survival supplies of food, a first aid kit, compass, waterproof matches and a pair of snowshoes in case you are stuck in heavy snow.

Tim Haddlesey, a former president of the Norwood Snowmobile Club, said he had been forced to spend a night in the bush because of mechanical breakdown on his machine. "But I didn't panic because I was prepared for emergencies. I just made myself comfortable and warm and waited for help."

Mr. Haddlesey advises people who do get lost while in the bush to "stop and listen for a familiar sound, like a train whistle, or traffic on a highway, and then get your bearings."

"While snowmobiling, common sense is often the best precaution in avoiding accidents," he said.

Clerk-Treasurer.

Come to Church this Sunday

The glad season of Christmas is with us again. The air is fresh, the snow is clean, the laughter of little children makes life merry. What a wonderful time it is! A season of gifts and garlands and gay decorations, of colored lights and evergreens, of candies, nuts and plum puddings, of music, art and poetry, of family reunions, friendly greetings and fat Santa Clauses! For a few days at least we are all children together.

And why not? Christmas is a birthday of a child. One who was to become the holiest and most decisive Person this world has ever known. With His birth there came "good tidings of great joy", and new light and hope for all who would receive Him. But alas, all men have not received Him, and those of us who have, have done so in a half-hearted way.

This is the sad part about Christmas. The awful predicament of our century surely forces the truth upon us that peace can come only to me of goodwill and that the light shines in vain if men prefer darkness rather than light. It is one thing to sing: "The hopes and fears of the years Are met in Thee tonight" But it is quite another thing to crown Him Lord of our lives and of our nations.

In the midst of our jollity, may we not forget the deeper meaning and challenge of Christmas- that it may truly be His day in our hearts and homes.

May it not be just a time of parties and over eating but also a time of re-dedication. Let us make Him truly Lord of our Hearts and lives and may that Spirit rule all our actions in the other 364 days of the year

Kincaid-Labrie Wedding

John Kincaid and Susan Labrie

A wedding of interest to Madoc and area residents was solemnized at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Hagersville, Ontario, on October 21, 1977 at 5.00 pm. Susan Paulette Labrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete O. Labrie of 16 Walpole St., Hagersville Ontario, exchanged vows with John H. Kincaid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Kincaid, 5 Fairfield Dr., Hagersville, Ontario.

Father Marivee officiated at the double ring ceremony with Miss Arlene Fox of Cayuga presiding at the organ.

The bride entered the Church on the arm of her father, Mr. P. Labrie, who also gave her in marriage.

Mrs. Joanne Stead, of Mississauga, was soloist for the occasion. She sang a beautiful rendition of "Evergreen" and "For All We Know".

Mrs. Lise Ellis, R.R.1, Jarvis was matron of honour for her sister.

Miss Annette Labrie of Hagersville another sister of the bride, Miss Marlene Baird, of Cayuga St., Cayuga, Ontario, a friend of the bride and Miss Karen Hobbs, Colborne St. in Simcoe Ont., friend of the bride were bridesmaids for Susan.

Mr. Terry Fryett, of Ghent Ave. Burlington Ontario, a friend of the groom, performed his duties as best man.

Kirk Brown, Main St., Hagersville, Rodger Spies, Main St. Hagersville, and Floyd Robbins, Railway St. Hagersville - all friends of the groom - were ushers for the ceremony.

The reception was held at Hagersville Legion Hall where the wedding party was escorted to and from the head table by a bagpiper - Bill Lawrence of Fisherville. The delicious dinner was catered by the Legion Auxiliary. Mr. Terry Fryett, the best man, also acted as toastmaster.

Following the reception approximately 225 guests attended the dance held at Hagersville Secondary School, where music was provided by Sound Spectrum of Simcoe. The luncheon was served by Mrs. Tatarnic of Cayuga.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, at three showers given in her honour by the bridesmaids, the home of the bride's parents; by Mrs. Kay Kogut at her home; and by the bride's co-workers, held a shower in Cayuga.

A stag for the groom was given by Terry Fryett and the ushers, this was held at the Hagersville Fire Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kincaid, the groom's parents hosted a rehearsal party at their home.

The happy couple spent their honeymoon at Penn Hills Resort, Pennsylvania, USA and are now residing at 13 1/2 King St., Hagersville.

The groom is employed by the town of Haldimand and his bride is employed by A.G. McKee and Co. in Nanticoke. Out of town guests were from Port Colborne, Madoc, Ottawa, Niagara Falls, Welland, London, St. Thomas and Toronto.

The Impact of Economics On Education

By MARIE SCHLAUCH

Mr. Fred Deacon, Belleville school trustee, was the guest speaker recently at a gathering of the women teachers of Belleville. His topic was "The impact of economics on education".

The following is a condensed version of his talk.

"To understand the economic pressures on today's education system, you have to go back 30 or so years ago to find some root causes. The second world war increased industrial technology and capacity. Canada was able to serve Britain and Western Europe as well as our own needs. Canada had a changed society after the war. Education was seen by many as the means to economic gain and social status.

Every working man wanted his children to be better off than he had been. Children graduated from the educational system better trained than their parents and with better employment opportunities.

Automation brought a need for better trained people. More leisure time was also available. Industrial growth and demand for new products brought prosperity.

The postwar baby boom in the late 40's caused the birth rate to take a dramatic rise causing a need for more educational buildings.

"From the mid 50's to the early 70's we built elementary schools, then secondary schools and lately universities and community colleges. Politicians promised more money for education. Everyone thought the answer to a better life for all was to build more schools, train more leaders. The Russians evoked the sputnik and the competition for better education was on between nations.

"Growth and prosperity were also planting the seeds of destruction. A reduction in the size of the family became a way to save money in order to obtain the visual signs of success. Science invented the pill and down went the rate of birth.

"Too much demand during prosperity and too little supply brought inflation. This had the first impact on education. A move was onto improve the quality of teachers at the elementary level. Salaries were on the way up. University degrees demanded more pay. The goal society had set for education had been that more education meant a better income.

"With rising costs government regional boards were established to improve education and efficiency. Grants for education were increased until in 1972, 75 per cent of Hastings County elementary and 78 per cent of secondary education were being paid for by the province. Further rises brought grant ceilings. Enrolment began to decline.

"As enrolment goes down provincial support goes down due to the grant per student basis. Local taxpayers support education on the mill rate times assessment.

"Inflation has brought staggering increases in costs of supplies, gas, oil and bussing.

"University graduates seeking jobs in today's state of record unemployment, are a product of the post war baby boom. The dream that education meant employment security, status is at an end. Frustration has turned against educators.

"Doctors now advanced the average longevity with the medical advances further reducing the people who had children in the school system.

"Elderly or fixed pensionable incomes are hit hardest by inflation and resulting rising taxes for an educational system in which they have no vested interest.

"As our economy went into a recession government revenues declined in growth. Astronomical deficits appeared in the billions of dollars at the federal and provincial levels. Financial restraint was now demanded.

"With the provincial government picking up 75 per cent of the cost of education a one per cent decrease in provincial support required a three per cent increase at local tax level to produce the same dollar. In 1976 the province eased up its support.

"The educational mill rate jumped 25 per cent. Trustees are faces with rising costs, declining enrolment and a hostile public.

"Nineteen elected trustees of Hastings County are going to have to reduce expenses. The community use of schools can no longer be subsidized with educational taxes. It should continue to have full use of schools, but on a fee schedule that recovers extra costs of custodians, heat, light, etc.

"Energy must be conserved. Small schools may have to be closed and consolidated with others. Schools in need of major renovation may have to be abandoned and the students moved to other schools.

"Seventy-five per cent costs are in salaries and fringe benefits. We are going to have to accept, in my opinion, a reduction in the scope of education in the future. We must share the responsibility of education.

"The public trust the educators with their most valued possession, their children; surely, teachers can trust the public to understand what is happening to education.

"Efforts to live within financial restraints will test the patience of all."

HOLIDAY BELLS ring out a message of happiness and joy and glad Christmas tidings! Our special thanks.

The pet

corner

In all the excitement of Christmas please remember your pets. They need to eat and have fresh water and still be taken for walks or exercised so they also can have a nice Christmas. Remember, no turkey or chicken bones. If you feed them a little turkey take the meat off the bones first so you won't have any horrible after effects.

To those who are giving pets as Christmas presents, please do not try and parcel the little animal up in a box even though you have already made air holes for breathing. Can you imagine the terror a little kitten or puppy will feel being put into a dark horrible box. Also if you have a kitten or puppy remember to keep it away from the open door. The animal can get out the door and once out into the street can wander aimlessly around terrified and not knowing where it is. Worst of all it may be knocked down by a car and either killed or left to die in pain on the road. Take your puppy or kitten out and wait with them and then bring them back in with you.

If you are giving a pet for Christmas please remember to buy proper food for it. If you have bought a kitten, remember also to get kitty litter. For puppies try and buy steel feeding bowls rather than plastic as plastic can be chewed and swallowed. Do not tire your new pet too much, if a puppy or kitten they need to have rest just like babies. Have a special place for your new pet to lie down in - a warm dry bed - not down in a dark basement but some place where they can still hear you and know they are not alone.

They will probably not have been away from their mother very long and will be confused and lonely.

Give them love and care and their proper food, not Christmas cake and candies and the like. Have a happy Christmas with your pets and a safe one. Merry Christmas everyone.

"Candy" is a 9½ year old American Cocker who is owned and loved by Angel, Shelley and John Fox. Candy won "Best Mutt" at the Mutt Show this year and also won the most comically dressed class by representing a fireman. Candy has a very loveable nature and is terrific for 9½ years. She is still a real glamorous girl.

Centennials Top Colborne

On Wed., Dec. 14, the Madoc Juniors travelled over slippery highways and through poor weather conditions to face the Colborne Mustangs. Late in arriving the locals quickly fell behind 3-0. A line of Lewis Gaylor, Stephen Rashotte and Quinn were responsible for two quick markers to draw the locals to within one goal. Then the line of Rod MacDonald, Stephen Lawrence, and Harry Grills notched the tying goal. Colborne scored two goals late in the period and held a 5-3 lead when the teams left the ice.

Madoc came to life in the second period and dominated play. They scored five successive goals to take an 8-5 lead when Colborne finally scored the final marker of the second period with Madoc now holding an 8-6 lead.

Colborne scored a quick goal to draw to within one goal early in the final period. Madoc scored another goal to jump into a 9-7 lead only to have Colborne reply with their eighth goal to draw within a goal again. Madoc scored the insurance marker with three seconds left in the game to skate away with the victory.

Even though Madoc didn't have a full squad, they proved that a depleted squad sometimes produces more desire, enthusiasm and effort than a bench full. If this many players can produce this well, certainly a full team should be even stronger.

Everyone there that night agrees that it was the best effort this year and the players can be proud of their performance. The defence played a particularly strong game.

Madoc scoring: 1) Quinn (Rashotte, Gaylord); 2) Rashotte (Quinn, T. Quinn); 3) H. Grills (MacDonald, Lawrence); 4) MacDonald (H. Grills, Brough); 5) T. Quinn (Lawrence, H. Grills); 6) T. Quinn (Quinn, Gaylord); 7) Rashotte (Brough); 8) Nickle (Lawrence); 9) Rashotte (Quinn, Gaylord); 10) MacDonald (Lawrence, Brough).

Newcomers

By SONNY OSBORNE

This week we saw the fourth game of the league schedule and both games were tight checking, close affairs. The boys are starting to show the benefits of their practice time on Tuesday evenings with improvements in their positional play.

The first game ended up a 2-2 tie between the Orange Flyers and the Green Canucks. Peter Ringleman scored both goals for the Flyers & was robbed by good saves by Mark Curtis on 3 other break-away chances. Brad Love & newcomer Bill Bateman scored for the Green team. Green coach Brian Armstrong was moaning over the fact that his sweaters had not yet been given their team crests, but surely a coach of his stature should know that a crest does not make a team. However, time will tell.

The second game saw the Black team, who are soon to receive new sweaters with Canadian Crests, win their second game of the season with a 3-2 triumph over the Blue Maple Leafs. Paul Hagerman led the Blacks with two goals while Mark Graham scored the other goal. Brian Derry and Craig Rosnuk earned assists. The Blues reined with Walter Pitt getting a goal and an assist and Bob Henderson scoring the other goal. Gary Taront earned an assist on the last goal.

The Orange Flyers still lead with five points with the Blacks and the Greens having four points and the Maple Leafs having three points.

There will be no formal games for the next two Saturdays due to the holidays but the ice is available between 8 and 10 a.m. for all House League players to come out and practice. It is hoped that as many boys as possible will come out and as well come to the Tuesday night practice at 5:30 - 6:30 p.m. The youngest boys will continue their playing at 10-11.

Happy holidays to all hockey players and fans!

Keep safety in mind over holiday

"Don't put candles on Christmas trees." Somewhere, someone with interests in the safety field is going to ask the new media - among other things - to remind their readers not to put candles on Christmas trees. In 1977.

In these days of instant everything, a busy new editor is likely to laugh and consign the advice to the closest circular file on the floor - if he or she hits it!

Still, even old ideas have a habit of becoming new again, and chances are someone would think of doing just that...putting candles on Christmas trees...and probably wonder why nobody had thought of it before. That's why the admonition is still included in Christmas do's and don'ts...even in 1977.

The Canada Safety Council has some more tips that can help make Christmas not only happy, but safe too:

LIGHTS:

- check for broken or cracked sockets, frayed or bare wires, and loose connections. Replace or repair as necessary.

- never use indoor light sets outside.
- when buying new sets, look for CSA or UL labels of approval.

- do not place more than 3 sets on one extension cord.

- coloured spotlights above or beside a metallic tree is safer than stings on lights on the branches, and gives a good effect.

TRIMMINGS:

- use non-combustible or flame retardant materials only.

- look for decorations that are unbreakable...especially if you have pets or small children.

- if using spun glass "angel hair", wear gloves.

TREES:

- recut the bottom of a natural tree diagonally, and stand in water, refilling container as often as necessary.

- purchase a tree that does not have brittle, dried out needles. Keep it out of doors until ready for use.

- take it down as soon as you conveniently can after Christmas.

- place the tree where it will not block access to doors or windows in the event of fire. Keep it away from curtains and heat sources.

- Never leave illuminated decorations, lit when out of the room.

- If you have pets or small children, secure the top of the tree to prevent tipping or falling.

- declare the Christmas tree area a "no smoking zone."

General - use common sense at all times for a happy, safe, holiday season...and if you drink, take a taxi!

Canada Safety Council has advice for travellers

The Canada Safety Council has some advice for people travelling to visit friends or relatives over the holidays, or at any other time during the winter.

Out-of-town trips, particularly on roads that are not well travelled, need not only special driving attention, but, the Council says "drivers should let people know what time they are leaving, when they expect to arrive, and especially, the route they are taking."

Phil Farmer, Executive Director of the Council says "In that way, if trouble is encountered, at least there is someone who can notify police or come and look for you."

If a car does get stuck on a little-travelled road - such as in a blizzard there are some things one can do to survive:

- Stay in the car, (unless habitation is visible nearby)

- Check tailpipe to ensure it is not blocked by snow or ice;

- Fast idle the engine up to ten minutes per hour to conserve gasoline.

- Keep a window open a fraction.

- Use a candle for warmth.

Before leaving on any trip, the Canada Safety Council says a vehicle should be equipped with: full tank of gas - never let it drop below half full; blankets; a bag of sand and pieces of carpet for traction; candles and matches; tire chains, and check the spare tire for pressure; window scraper and a shovel.

Grain corn stabilization programs announced

by D.F. YOUNG,
Agricultural Representative

Grain Corn Stabilization Programs - Two grain corn stabilization programs have been announced since Sept. 1 of 1977. One of these programs covers the crop year Sept. 1, 1976, to August 31, 1977; while the second program covers the period from September 1, 1977 through to August 31, 1978. Under the first program all grain corn growers who sold corn and have the proper receipts, weights, etc. would be eligible for the equivalent of 6 cents per bushel, or $6 lbs. of 15.5 per cent moisture corn. There is no payment on the first 400 bushels. We would emphasize that all grain corn growers who meet the above specifications are eligible regardless of the price they received for their corn last year. Application forms are available at the County Agricultural Office. The second program for corn sold between September 1 of this year and August 31 of 78 includes a provincial subsidy as well as the federal payment. While it is not certain that there will be a payment made for this year's crop, current prices would indicate that this should be the case. It is estimated that the payment could be in the area of 11-12 cents per bushel. In order to be eligible for the Ontario program, corn growers must apply by Jan. 16, 1978. Again, weights and moisture content, along with sales information, is required. Application forms for this program are also available at the County Agricultural offices.

Farm Tax Concerns - Most farmers who file income tax on a cash basis should take a few minutes and study their tax position before year-end. If taxable income is known, it may be possible to make adjustments in certain areas which would result in a tax reduction. In cases where receipts over expenses are high, it may be possible to reduce these receipts to some extent by checking the following points: Pay off all business charge accounts - these would include those for feed, vet services, breeding, fuel, etc. Hold income down for the remainder of the year as much as possible - this may mean holding cash grain sales to the next tax year, as well as livestock sales, etc. This has the effect of lowering this year's income but, of course, adding to next year's potential income. If there are youngsters in the family who have been working on the farm and have actually made contributions in this regard they can be paid a wage within certain limits. Check your tax guide before proceeding. Where there is a basic herd, the herd can be reduced within certain limits as laid down by the tax act. Usually this is 10 per cent of the basic herd where a business is continuous. There are accelerated depreciation schedules on certain types of grain storages and manure storages. Check these for eligibility. If you are certain you will be buying new machinery in the coming year, this

Special research program

TORONTO - A special research program aimed at reducing the amount of salt used to keep Ontario roads free of ice and snow will get underway this winter. Transportation and Communications Minister James Snow said today.

"We want to know if it's possible to reduce the quantity of salt used for winter maintenance operations without affecting the level of service to the travelling public," said Snow.

Snow said the Ministry will, therefore, be cutting back on the amount of salt normally used on a number of highway test sites across southern Ontario.

He said the test zones will be clearly marked by roadside signs so motorists will be aware they may be driving on different road conditions. The Ontario Provincial Police have been informed of the program and will be paying special attention to all salt reduction test sites.

The sites will be located on Highways 7 and 45 near Norwood; Highways 89 and 50 near Cookstown; Highway 3 in the Simcoe-Tillsonburg area and the QEW and Highway 55 in the Niagara Peninsula.

Snow said good housekeeping practices will also be stressed in Ministry maintenance operations.

"It is our intention to refine our procedures rather than introduce drastic changes which could result in chaotic traffic problems."

Nuttin' For Christmas

I broke my bat on Johnny's head; somebody snitched on me
I hid a frog in sister's bed;
Somebody snitched on me.
I spilled some ink on Mommy's rug,
I made Tommy eat a bug,
Bought some gum with a penny slug;
somebody snitched on me.
Oh, I'm gettin' nuttin' for Christmas,
Mommy and Daddy are mad.
I'm gettin' nuttin' for Christmas,
'Cause I ain't been nuttin' but bad.

So you better be good,
what ever you do,
'Cause if you're bad I'm warning
you,
You'll get nuttin' for Christmas.
I put a tack on teacher's chair,
somebody snitched on me.
I tied a knot in Susie's hair,
somebody snitched on me.
I did a dance on Mommy's plants, climbed a tree and tore my pants,
I filled the sugar bowl with ants;
somebody snitched on me.
So, I'm gettin' nuttin' for Christmas.

Mommy and Daddy are mad.
I'm gettin' nuttin' for Christmas,
'Cause I ain't been nuttin' but bad.
I won't be seeing Santa Claus;
somebody snitched on me.
He won't come visit me because
somebody snitched on me.
Next year I'll be going straight;
Next year I'll be good, just wait,
I'd start now but it's too late;
somebody snitched on me. Oh,
I'm getting nuttin' for Christmas
Mommy and Daddy are mad,
I'm gettin' nuttin' for Christmas,
'Cause I ain't been nuttin' but bad.

Rockin' Around The Christmas Tree

Rockin' around the Christmas tree
At the Christmas party hop,
Mistletoe hung where you can see
Every couple tries to stop,
Rockin' around the Christmas
tree
Let the Christmas spirit ring,
Later we'll have some punkin pie
And we'll do some caroling,

You will get a sentimental feeling
When you hear,
Voices singing "Let's be jolly,
Deck the halls with boughs of
holly."
Rockin' around the Christmas
tree
Have a happy holiday,
Everyone dancing merrily
In the new old fashioned way.

Rudolph The Red Nosed Reindeer

You know Dasher and Dancer
And Prancer and Vixen,
Comet and Cupid
And Donner and Blitzen
But do you recall,
The most famous reindeer of all?
Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer
Had a very shiny nose,
And if you ever saw it,
You would even say it glows
All of the other reindeer
Used to laugh and call him names

They never let poor Rudolph
Join in any reindeer games
Then one foggy Christmas Eve,
Santa came to say
"Rudolph with your nose so bright,
Won't you guide my sleigh tonight?"
Then how the reindeer loved him
As they shouted out with glee:
"Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer,
You'll go down in history."

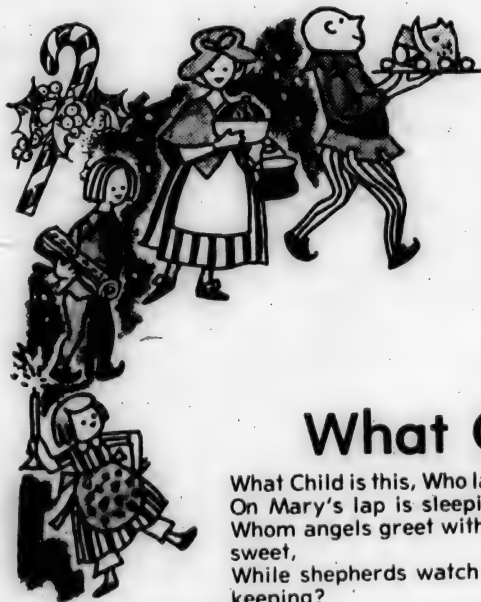

Deck The Halls

Deck the halls with boughs of
holly,
Fa la la la la la la la la,
'Tis the season to be jolly,
Fa la la la la la la la la.
Don we now our gay apparel,
Fa la la la la la la la la,
Troll the ancient Yuletide carol,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.
See the blazing Yule before us,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.
Strike the harp and join the
chorus,

Fa la la la la, la la la la.
Follow me in merry measure,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.
While I tell of Yuletide treasure,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.
Fast away the old year passes,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.
Hail the new, ye lads and lasses,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.
Sing we joyous all together,
Fa la la la la, la la la la,
Heedless of the wind and weather,
Fa la la la la, la la la la.

O Holy Night

O holy night the stars are brightly shining.
It is the night of the dear Savior's birth;
Long lay the world in sing and sorrow pining.
Till He appeared and the soul felt its worth,
A thrill of hope, the weary world rejoices.
For yonder breaks a new and glorious morn!
Fall on your knees!
O hear the angel voices
O night divine!
O night when Christ was born!
O night divine
O night, O night divine!

Away In A Manger

Away in a manger, no crib for his bed
The little Lord Jesus laid down his sweet head.
The stars in the bright sky looked down where He lay,
The little Lord Jesus asleep in the hay.
The cattle are lowing, the poor
Baby wakes,
But little Lord Jesus, no crying He makes.

I love Thee, Lord Jesus, look down from the sky,
And stay by my cradle till morning is nigh.
Be near me, Lord Jesus, I ask
Thee to stay
Close by me forever and love me I pray.
Bless all the dear children in Thy tender care,
And take us to heaven to live with Thee there.

O Little Town Of Bethlehem

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie;
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.
For Christ is born of Mary;
And gathered all above;
While mortals sleep, the angels keep

Their watch of wond'ring love.
Morning stars together,
Proclaim the holy birth;
And praises sing to God the King
And peace to men on earth.
O holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descent to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in,
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels,
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel.

O Come, all Ye Faithful

O, come, all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant,
O come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem.
Come and behold Him,
Born the King of Angels.
Chorus
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ the Lord.

Sing, choirs of angels,
Sing all ye citizens of heav'n above:
Glory to God
In the highest, glory!
Chorus
Yea, Lord we greet Thee,
Born this happy morning,
Jesus, to Thee be glory giv'n;
Word of the Father,
Now in flesh appearing.
Chorus

What Child Is This

What Child is this, Who laid to rest
On Mary's lap is sleeping?
Whom angels greet with anthems
sweet,
While shepherds watch are keeping?

This, this is Christ, the King; Whom shepherds guard and angels sing;
Haste, haste to bring Him laud,
The Babe, the Son of Mary.

Jingle Bells

Dashing thru the snow, in a one-horse open sleigh;
O'er the fields we go, laughing all the way;
Bells on bobtails ring, making spirits bright,
What fun it is to ride and sing a sleighing song tonight
(Oh)

Chorus
Jingle bells! Jingle bells! jingle all the way!
Oh what fun it is to ride in a one-horse open sleigh!
Jingle bells! Jingle bells! Jingle all the way!
Oh what fun it is to ride in a one-horse open sleigh!

A day or two ago, I thought I'd take a ride,
And soon Miss Fanny Bright, was seated by my side;
The horse was lean and lank, misfortune seemed his lot,
He got into a drifted bank and so we got upstot. (Oh)

Chorus
Now the ground is white, go it while you're young,
Take the girls tonight, and sing this sleighing song,
Just get a bob-tailed nag, two forty for his speed,
Then hitch him to an open sleigh, an crack you'll take the lead. (Oh)

Chorus

The First Noel

The first Noel, the angel did say,
Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay;
In fields where they lay keeping their sheep,
On a cold winter's night that was so deep.

Chorus
Noel, Noel, Noel, Noel,
Born is the King of Israel.

They looked up and saw a star
Shining in the East, beyond them far,
And to the earth it gave great light,
And so it continued both day and night.

Chorus

This star drew night to the northwest
Over Bethlehem it took its rest,
And there it did both stop and stay,
Right over the place where Jesus lay.

Chorus
Then let us all with one accord,
Sing praises to our heavenly Lord,
Who hath made heaven and earth of nought,
And with his blood mankind hath bought.

The Night Before Christmas

'Twas the night before Christmas and all thru the house,
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.
All the stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In the hope that Saint Nicholas soon would be there.
Then what to my wondering eyes should appear,
A miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer.
A little old driver so lively and quick,

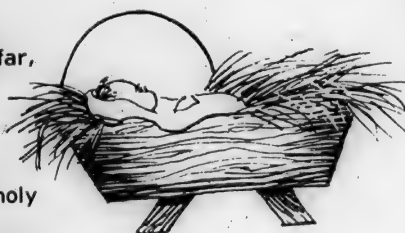

I knew in a moment it must be Saint Nick.
And more rapid than eagles his reindeer all came,
As he shouted,
"On Dasher" and each reindeer's name.
(And so) up to the housetop the reindeer soon flew,
With the sleigh full of toys and Saint Nicholas too.
Down the chimney he came with a leap and a bound.
He was dressed all in fur and his belly was round.

He spoke not a word but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings, then turned with a jerk.
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
Then giving a nod up the chimney he rose;
But I heard him exclaim as he drove out of sight,
"Merry Christmas to all
And to all a Good Night."

Silent Night

Silent night, Holy night,
All is calm all is bright.
'Round yon Virgin Mother and Child,
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace, Sleep in heavenly peace.
Silent night, Holy night,
Shepherds quake at the sight
Glories stream from heaven afar,
Heav'nly hosts sing Alleluia.
Christ, the Savior is born,
Christ, the Savior is born!
Silent night, Holy night,
Son of God, love's pure light,
Radiant beams from Thy holy face
With the dawn of redeeming grace
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth.

C-h-r-i-s-t-m-a-s

When I was but a youngster,
Christmas meant one thing,
That I'd be getting lots of toys that day.
I learned a whole lot different when mother sat me down,
And taught me to spell Christmas this way.
"C" is for the Christ Child,
born upon this day,
"H" is for her-ald angels in the night.
"R" means our Redeemer,
"I" means Israel,
"S" is for the star that shone so bright.
"T" is for three wise men,
They who travelled far,
"M" is for the manger where He lay.
"A" is for all He stands for,
"S" means shepherds came,
And that's why there's a Christmas day.

The Holly and The Ivy

The holly and the ivy,
Now both are full well grown
Of all the trees within the wood
The holly bears the crown.
Chorus

O, the rising of the sun
The running of the deer,
The playing of the merry organ,
Sweet singing in the choir,
The holly bears a blossom,
As white as lily flower;
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ
To be our sweet Savoir.
Chorus

Joy To The World

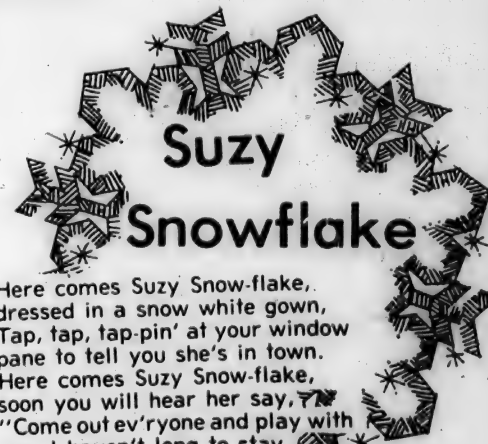

Joy to the world! the Lord is come;
Let earth receive her King;
Let ever'y heart prepare Him room,
And heav'n and nature sing,
And heav'n nature sing,
And heav'n, and heav'n and nature sing.
Joy to the world the Savior reigns;

While fields and flood, rocks, hills and plains,
Repeat the sounding joy,
Repeat the sounding joy,
Repeat, repeat the sounding joy.
He rules the world with truth and grace,
And makes the nations prove
The glories of His righteousness,
And wonders of His love,
And wonders of His love,
and wonders, and wonders of His love.

Jolly Old Saint Nicholas

Lean your ear this way!
Don't you tell a single soul
What I'm going to say;
Christmas Eve is coming soon;
Now, you dear old man,
Whisper what you'll bring to me,
Tell me if you can.

Johnny wants a pair of skates;
Susy wants a dolly;
Nelly wants a story book,
She thinks dolls are folly;
As for me my little brain
Isn't very bright;
Choose for me, Old Santa Claus
What you think is right.

Here comes Suzy Snow-flake, dressed in a snow white gown,
Tap, tap, tap-pin' at your window pane to tell you she's in town.
Here comes Suzy Snow-flake,
soon you will hear her say,
"Come out ev'ryone and play with me, I haven't long to stay."
If you wan-na make a snowman,
I'll help you make one, one, two, three.
If you wan-na take a sleigh ride,
the ride's on me."
Here comes Suzy Snowflake,
look at her tumblin' down.
Bringing joy to every girl and boy,
Suzy's come to town.

Accidents kill almost 1,000

Occupational accidents killed almost 1,000 Canadian workers in 1976. There were more than one million injuries, costing almost $800 million. This is about $35 per year for every man, woman and child in Canada.

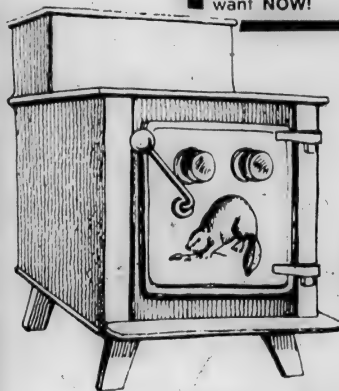

These staggering figures and their effects will be discussed at the Conference On Protective Equipment (COPE '78) to be held at the Skyline Hotel in Toronto on January 23, 24 and 25, 1978. Safety specialists and decision makers from across Canada will participate in COPE and discuss means to reduce the number of occupational injuries in all industries.

Several provincial cabinet ministers will join key representatives from industry and labour at the Conference.

COPE is being organized by the Canada Safety Council, Canadian Standards Association and Construction Safety Association of Ontario, and endorsed by John Munro, Labour Minister of Canada, who says "the harmful effect of these injuries (the majority unnecessary) goes beyond the human suffering involved. This country as a whole and industry in particular cannot afford to continually absorb this order of loss without suffering serious consequences. We must act now to counter the situation."

Getting along together is important.

This is what Ontario is doing to help develop understanding between people.

As our society grows more diverse, community tensions may arise from time to time. Our responsibility is to help individuals, groups and communities resolve any difficulties that may occur, and reduce tension so that greater understanding and respect may be reached.

The Ontario Human Rights Code is designed to assure the rights and dignity of all persons without regard to race, creed, colour, nationality, ancestry, place of origin, age (40-65), sex and marital status.

In addition to investigating and mediating complaints of discrimination in such areas as employment, housing, public services and facilities, job advertisements and the posting of signs and notices, the Ontario Human Rights Commission works for healthier relations between groups at the community level.

Community counselling is one of the major roles of your Ontario Human Rights Commission. We endeavour to break down communication barriers among groups by working together, with agencies, institutions and the community itself. By explaining both the rights and responsibilities of all residents in this province, we believe that the aims and the objectives of the Code can be achieved.

machinery can be used for capital cost allowance purposes if purchased before year-end. It should be remembered, however, that capital cost allowance is only a percentage of the purchase price - usually 10 to 30 per cent. A close look at the farmer's and fisherman's guide will give some indication, as well, of the averaging provisions for farmers that might be considered. Where expenses exceed income, as is often the case where new farmers are getting established, there are a number of things to consider. First, read carefully the section dealing with livestock inventory and add inventory to bring income up as required. Secondly, claim only part or none of the capital cost allowance eligible to you. If left, these can be claimed in future years. Otherwise add income where possible during the current year through livestock sales, crop sales, etc.

Two additional 1976-77 snowmobile fatalities

TORONTO - Snowmobile accidents were down 6.1 per cent but there were two additional fatalities during the 1976-77 season, Minister of Transportation and Communications James Snow said today.

"Twenty-eight persons died in snowmobile-related accidents," said Snow, "and that is a sheer waste of lives."

The Minister reported that personal injury collisions were down 7.5 per cent, personal injuries down 5.5 per cent, and property damage-only collisions decreased 3.4 per cent.

While these statistics indicate a move in the right direction -- downward -- we're talking about injuries to 515 persons. And that's just too many people getting hurt."

Snow also released the following statistics:

Four hundred and fifty-eight (64 per cent) collisions occurred on highways and 256 (36 per cent) off the road. There were 328 accidents on rural roads, 130 on urban roads.

Three hundred and seventy-one happened on the travelled portion of the highway; 63 on the shoulder, and 24 on the area off the highway shoulder.

Three hundred and twenty-five accidents happened in icy, packed snow or dry surfaces; 112 on loose snow, 21 on wet surfaces.

Five hundred and three snowmobile drivers were involved in collisions on highways; of these 212 were under 20 years old, 48 were under 16.

"A disturbing fact is that 96 snowmobile drivers in the accidents reported were described as 'ability impaired' or 'had been drinking'. And 10 drivers in that condition were involved in fatal collisions."

"Snowmobilers must realize they are operating a motorized vehicle, not a toy, and drinking and driving is just as dangerous, and just as much a breach of the law as it is when in a car. And the same stiff penalties apply, right up to a possible jail sentence."

"I believe snowmobilers should have a healthy respect for their machines, and this attitude should start when they're beginners."

"That's why I think beginners, especially youngsters, could benefit from the driver training courses now being offered by the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs. The more people learn about safe snowmobile operation, the less likely they are to become accidents statistics," Snow concluded.

Those interested in locating snowmobile clubs offering OFSC Driver Training Courses should contact: OFSC Driver Training Office, RR1, Jordan Station, Ontario, LOR 1S0.

Employee injured in fall

Bob Wood, employee of Cembal Publications, fell and fractured his right hip while distributing papers in Campbellford last Wednesday night.

Bob is recuperating in St. Joseph's General Hospital, Peterborough, after an operation on his hip, Thursday. He will be in traction six weeks.

Well-known through all the communities served by Cembal Publications, Bob is a hardworking, conscientious member of our staff and will be sorely missed during his absence.

Bob is in Room 450 at the hospital. Visitors, cards, etc. are welcome.

Vol. 101 No. 52 Thurs., Dec. 29, 1977

Study recommends no development for Grimsthorpe Lake

Grimsthorpe lake in Grimsthorpe Township, is among trout waters in southeastern Ontario that have been recommended as areas of restricted development in a recent joint report by the ministries of the Environment and Natural Resources.

The report, based on studies conducted by the two ministries in 1975 and 1976 found Grimsthorpe among highly sensitive Trout lakes and recommends that almost no further development be allowed.

The study, was prompted by dwindling lake trout populations in southern Ontario and the reported deterioration of the water in some of the lakes studied. Of the several hundred lakes in the area studied, which included the counties of Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Leeds, Lanark and the southern half of Hastings - only 59 supported lake trout. Thirty nine of these lakes have naturally reproduced lake trout populations while another 20 are hatchery stock lake trout. "Historically" says the report, "Lake trout were found in another 24 southeastern Ontario lakes, but trout no longer exist in these waters."

The main conclusion of the report is that nutrient enrichment - largely from human waste disposal systems - "from shoreline development has been identified as a factor influencing the ability of some of the lakes to support lake trout."

The lakes in the crucial category, including Grimsthorpe Lake are identified as highly sensitive due to small volumes of deep water and a small flushing or drainage system. The composition of the oxygen supplies of these lakes is also different. The report notes that "These lakes also have significant committed phosphorous inputs (which is the element in human waste which most jeopardizes the survival of the lake trout) in the form of existing vacant registered lots to bring about a condition which would be critical for the continued survival of the lake trout."

In this category it is recommended that:

- 1) no new lots be created;
- 2) no tent or

- trailer parks or tourist establishments be created;
- 3) no further developments for rent or lease be created on the lake frontage;
- 4) highly stringent regulations for the servicing of dwellings built in the future be enforced;
- 5) all existing waste disposal systems be brought up to a high standard.

In its general recommendations, the report emphasizes the need of help from cottage owners on the lakes.

This assistance can take two forms. One is for each cottager to see to the upgrading of their waste disposal system if it is considered substandard. This not only protects the water for the lake trout but also may be necessary for health reasons.

Also under individual efforts would come the idea of minimizing phosphorous input by: 1) reducing the quantity of water utilized for domestic purposes; 2) avoiding automatic dishwashers since these use detergents which have a high phosphorous content; 3) avoiding having a lawn and using fertilizer, another high phosphorous substance, on lawns already created; 4) planting trees and shrubs to increase vegetation cover on the lot.

The report also urges that cottagers become involved in a "Self-Help" program to monitor water quality. Information on this can be obtained from: The Ministry of the Environment, Southeastern Regional Office, 133 Dalton St., Kingston, Ontario K7L 4X6.

The ministry will be relying mostly "on moral suasion to see action taken that we feel should be taken" according to Mr. German. He said that there had not been "too much reaction to date" on the report, which was released over a month ago. Copies have been forwarded to County and Township Councils in whose area the responsibility for management of development lies.

This husky decided that turnabout was fair play and that it was his turn to ride on the sleigh

Users will pay for meters

User of water meters will bear the cost of installation, Madoc Village Council decided in its last meeting, December 5. The cost of the meters will be included on water billings and extended over a period of approximately 2 years.

In other business, council passed its land use by-law through its third reading. It now goes to Hastings County Council to be reviewed by that body. If the by-law is not in conflict with the county land use plan it will become law.

Council also moved to apply for Wintario and Community Recreation Grants for the Centennial Committee.

Bill Willemsen: from poor immigrant to successful businessman

Bill Willemsen of Madoc has lived in this area since 1954 when he arrived from Huissen, Holland to work as a farmer. Since that time, Bill has worked hard to become the owner of his own business - the Wind Mill Restaurant, on highway 7, west of Madoc.

Bill's arrival in the Madoc area was not strictly by chance. In Holland, in 1954, there was a kind of exodus to other countries because there was no future for anyone there. The majority of the people came to Canada because of the good relationships between the two countries during the war, but also because Canada was trying to get immigrants from Holland. The Dutch people who paid their own way to Canada and had the opportunity of choosing where they wanted to settle. They were able to do this by watching films of the different provinces to see which area offered the trades that an immigrant might be interested in. Bill and his father had seen films of the Kingston, Belleville and Trenton areas, and because they were farmers, were very interested in the Hastings and Prince Edward regions. They were very intrigued by the fruit and vegetable growing in Prince Edward County. Bill explained that the films didn't fully prepare people for the country because they saw only the good things. Many people had already come to Canada and had written to friends and relatives back in Holland. All of the reports were good and that is why the Willemsens picked Canada instead of the United States or another country.

The Willemsens first landed in Halifax, "sicker than a dog." The ocean crossing definitely did not agree with them. From Halifax they travelled by train to Montreal and then on to Belleville. When they ended up in Madoc, they found it extremely hard to find housing that they could afford for a family. They finally went to live on the farm of Mr. Jim Pitts. Bill worked there for a year and a half while he was learning English. When Bill was in Holland, he had started a course in veterinary medicine, and was planning on completing the course in Guelph when he arrived in Canada.

by ROSS LEES

Hastings Woolens is a new store in Madoc that opened on December first. It is owned by Mrs. Johanna Van Esch and her sister Mrs. Jacoba Roovers. Johanna's daughter-in-law Mrs. Margaret Van Esch will be the clerk. Margaret will be working on a voluntary basis until they see how the store is received; if business really starts to boom, then all three ladies will try to devote more time to the store.

Johanna is originally from Holland, but now resides in Madoc. When she first came to Canada, she lived in Peterborough and worked as a chef at Trent University. She had been employed at the University for about five years, but has always had the dream of owning her own store. At the present time, she still does not have all her eggs in one basket. She also works the twelve to eight shift at the Windmill Restaurant for Mr. Bill Willemsen. She has been cooking at the Windmill since about the end of September of this year. Mrs. Van Esch says that even though she has her own store now, "I won't let Bill down."

Mrs. Roovers, is presently residing in Peterborough but is holding up her share of the business by doing knitting and crocheting. Mrs. Roovers is also taking a macrame course now so that if people ask questions about macrame she will have the basic knowledge to be able to help them with their problems. Margaret Van Esch, formerly Margaret Miller, is a local girl and is well-known in the community. Margaret will be taking care of the store while her mother-in-law gets some rest after her shift at the restaurant.

Although Johanna has had the idea of owning her own store for many years, it was not until a couple of weeks before they opened, that they made the final decision. When the two sisters saw the store for rent in Madoc, they decided that... it was now or never. After a little looking, they realised that there was nothing else like it in this immediate area, so they thought their chances of success were pretty good.

Two weeks seems like an extremely short time to organize a business and put it into operation, but the two sisters have been preparing themselves for many years. Mrs. Van Esch has been knitting, sewing and crocheting for other people since her children were very young. Her children's clothes were what first attracted other people to her work. When parents saw her children's pretty clothes, they began to ask Mrs. Van Esch to do things for them. After she came to Canada and settled in Peterborough, people suggested that Mrs. Van Esch should take some samples of her work to the market in Peterborough and sell them there. Her sister and eldest daughter eventually started to help her, and their business began to flourish even at that early date.

New store brings fibre crafts to Madoc

Margaret Van Esch

The sisters heard about the Peterborough Arts and Crafts Guild, and decided to attend a couple of meetings. Eventually they joined the guild and became very involved in it. People seemed interested in their craft, and they sold more and more of their products. When the opportunity to have a store presented itself, they were already accomplished businesswomen, and they were getting into a market that they knew well.

There is not as much material and articles in the store as the ladies would like, but they hope that it won't take too long to build up their stock. Yarns are a big concern to them right now. They like to work with Canadian yarns because "...it is much softer than American yarns and it stands up very well." Johanna has heard of a factory in Campbellford that she is going to look into. At the present time she buys much of her yarn from Peterborough. She wrote to BeeHive, but at that time she did not have a number for her vendor's permit and they wouldn't supply any information until they received it. One of the interesting yarns that they have in the store is 20% mohair and 80% acrylic. This yarn is called Emu Robin and is made in the United States.

Because of the low quantity of stock at the present time, Mrs. Van Esch said she would like to display crafts for the local people. Naturally, the amount of local crafts they can display will depend on how much space they have available, and how fast things sell. The ladies would also like to hear from local craftsmen because if people come in and ask for things that Hastings Woolens doesn't have, they can refer them to the people who have that particular article. In Peterborough, when they belonged to the Arts and Crafts Guild, there was a lady in the guild who did finger weaving. She was from India and they do finger weaving because they don't have needles and couldn't afford them if they did. Mrs. Van Esch has a sample of this craft in her window.

Mrs. Van Esch would like to have people come to Madoc to show the residents how to do their individual crafts. She would be pleased to try and get the Indian lady from above to come to Madoc if the interest was high enough. Also, she would like to get Mr. Dan Spargo from Peterborough, to Madoc. Mr. Spargo owns a Skill Craft store in Peterborough, and he has volunteered to come down and demonstrate macrame. Mrs. Van Esch explained that Mr. Spargo makes very beautiful lamp shades from macrame, and she thinks people would really enjoy seeing how they are made and their amazing quality.

The ladies have been quite surprised with their reception in Madoc. When they first decided to open the store, Emiel Van Esch, who does painting and decorating in Madoc, told them not to get too optimistic, and to be prepared to lose money for the first few months. However the shop is doing very well, even to the point of paying for itself. Many people have stopped in to say that a store like this is needed in Madoc, and the ladies are kept busy filling the orders. Mrs. Van Esch says, "We will take order for anything, such as sweaters and shawls, as long as it is not sewing. I did sewing for years and got fed up with it. We will try to supply anything else that people might want."

Willemssen opens Wind Mill Restaurant

Bill and Bernardine Willemssen

However, the course would require a lot of money, so Bill had to give up the idea of becoming a veterinarian.

Disappointment naturally set in, and Bill often found himself wondering: "What am I doing here?" His biggest disappointment was the way Canadians kept their farms and machinery. In Holland, all the farms were well painted and kept in immaculate condition. Here he saw miles of old rail fences and unpainted houses and barns with old cars and machinery everywhere. This was not the country he saw in the films in Holland. Now he is able to laugh at that initial shock, but at the time that it happened, he must have been ready to return to Holland.

In 1955, Bill had learned enough English that he was able to go into the bakery delivery business. He worked for Brown's Bakeries of Toronto for a year before he bought the franchise and began working on his own. His area covered Madoc, Bancroft, Coehill and Apsley. I can still remember as a child eagerly waiting for "Bill the breadman" to arrive. He was always smiling and soon knew the names of the children. Even though he would be in a hurry, he always had time for idle chatter and a few jokes with the children. Bill soon moved on to work for Weston's Bakeries, but he was often remembered by his former customers. When he worked for Weston's, he covered all of Belleville and Prince Edward County.

It was at this point in his life that Bill bought the old Shell station in Madoc from George McKnight. "We worked darn hard to renovate the store, the car wash and the restaurant. There was nothing there when we bought it." Now the Wind Mill Restaurant had finally been established. From this time on, the Wind Mill's reputation began to climb. The service was good, the restaurant was clean, the coffee was just the way you liked it and the people were always happy and ready to talk. As time progressed the store became a good place to buy fresh fruit and vegetables and homemade cooking. Things were just beginning to look like Bill wanted it, when he saw another opportunity and decided to take a chance.

Mr. Clarke Huffman had decided to sell the Whispering Pines restaurant and Bill saw the potential in the business and wasted no time in buying it. Again they had many hours of work to put in before they had their restaurant the way they wanted it. The dining room is in a cafeteria style but features full course meals. The highest standards of cleanliness and service is maintained and Bill feels that this will build up the business. There are presently fourteen people employed there, and home style meals are the result of their hard work. These people are all members of this community, and they really seem to care whether you enjoy your meal or not. "It is a family business and we are counting on the good service, high quality and cleanliness to bring the local people to the Wind Mill. We have the buses but the residents of Madoc will be the backbone of our business." Because they are so close to the highway, they are only allowed so much advertising, and this may have affected the number of people who stop for a break from driving.

Bill plans to expand and have a European style dining room and as soon as a license becomes available, they will be licensed. They have sixty-seven acres of land with the restaurant, so there is plenty of room for expansion. "The overhead is very high so we would be happy to just break even over the winter. People are beginning to come, but it will take a while for the business to build up." However things go, Bill says this is his last move.

Notice to Property Owners in the Village of Hastings

By-Law No.75-17, Regulating the use of sewers in the Village of Hastings requires all buildings or properties used for human occupancy, employment, recreation or other purposes to connect to the sewer Service connection within 2 years of the date the public sewer is in operation. This period expires December 31, 1977.

The sewer rates were established by the Ministry of Environment, based on these connections being made. Therefore, in order to meet the Village's commitment to the Ministry ALL properties that may be serviced, whether connected or not, will be liable for the monthly sewage rate, effective January 1, 1978.

Legislation is announced to exempt vehicles from act

TORONTO - Minister of Transportation and Communications James Snow today announced legislation has been passed which will exempt car and van pools from the Public Vehicles Act.

The legislation excludes vehicles with a seating capacity of twelve or less including the driver, providing the owner does not operate more than one car pool unless he is the employer of a majority of the commuters.

In making the announcement, Mr. Snow praised companies and individuals now involved in car pooling and added, "a growth in the number of car pools will have a beneficial effect on Ontario's energy conservation program and will help to reduce rush hour traffic congestion."

The exemption applies to vehicles used for commuter trips, where the driver makes no more than one round trip per day

Education in 1977: choosing priorities

The educational scene 1977 is indeed a broad and challenging subject. It is a topic that deals with current issues rather than with facts, and predictably, there are more questions than answers. The topic demands objectivity, but teachers cannot help but be subjective.

What is the educational scene today? Many educators see our public educational system as the best that can be offered in any part of the world; on the other hand, some parents express such dissatisfaction as to send their children to private schools where so-called formal and academic courses are offered and where, hopefully, the desired attitudes are acquired and good study habits are fostered. Some teachers see their work as satisfying, challenging and rewarding; others are fighting frustration and intimidation. Some teachers are teaching; others are fighting for student attention and striving for some sort of discipline. Many students are achieving their goals and enjoying the happiness of fulfillment; others are not, as "courses are irrelevant", teachers lack understanding", "classes are boring", and "what's the use of it all". And so the conflicts rage.

The public image of the teacher is a concern. In a free-thinking democratic society, every profession is "under the microscope"; but the teacher, who is so closely involved with daily family relationships and activities, seems to be constantly under attack. Why?

During periods of economic instability, a nation's educational system—which, of Today, we hear such phrases as "facts and fundamentals", "more structure", "swing back the pendulum", and, of course, "back to the more tried, tested and traditional methods". In insecure times there is always comfort in nostalgia and the backward look through "the rear-view mirror". Psychologically when one lacks confidence about one's present position and feels apprehensive about the future, the past looks good, because we have gone through that experience and survived. Parents are reacting in this manner today. They feel secure with the so-called traditional teaching methods.

In addition we are experiencing a reaction to the "Progressive Sixties". The curriculum of many nations reflected the youthful unrest and reaction of the time. Old traditions were suspect; youthful innovations were encouraged. Accepted traditional and often excellent methods and practices were quickly questioned and discarded, while innovations were introduced in rapid succession. The so-called freedom turned to frustration, confidence course, includes its teachers—comes under severe criticism. When the unemployment rate is high, competition is far keener, demands and sacrifices are greater and parents are more apprehensive about the future of their children—especially when they observe that higher qualifications are needed for the rapidly diminishing number of advertised jobs. Have the educational system and its teachers sometimes become one of the targets for public complaint?

Charles Mowat

changed to confusion, and innovation became expensive experimentation. Parents were also bewildered and are still confused. Hence the cry for the return to conventional methods.

Be what may, the public has demanded the return to compulsory subjects. We have a present emphasis on "core curriculum".

But teachers have always felt involved with and responsible for the following functions:

- 1) Literacy—teaching the three R's
- 2) Enrichment—enriching the child's life with information and experiences to help him or her to appreciate the joys of living to the fullest and to foster a love of art, music, science, mathematics, history, and other forms of cultural attainments.
- 3) Socialization—to teach the child to adopt the ways and attitudes of his own society, and that he or she learn what others expect of him or her as a human being, and what he or she, in turn, should expect of them.
- 4) Occupational training—to equip a child with the basic skills needed to earn a living
- 5) Mental and Physical Health—to provide a happy and secure learning and social environment for development

6) Social Status—the child's performance in school should be a measure of his or her standing in society and an indication of his or her future achievement

Which of these functions demand the first three places? which of them will be of greater benefit to the child? These functions are the fundamentals of the school's curriculum.

Admittedly, in the past, in some crucial ways, the curriculum in our schools may have become less cohesive, less directive and possibly in some cases even less challenging and demanding than ought to have been the case. More positive emphasis on "Core curriculum" proves helpful to both student and teacher. It provides the pupil with the basics, and the teacher with the necessary provided guidelines.

How is Hastings County responding to present societal demands and answering the need for curriculum development. Through the Learning Outcomes Programme educational expectations in all subject areas are being defined. Acceptable levels of performance are being established. Experiences and interested teachers are being encouraged to develop curriculum guidelines. Our professional development days in the main are being devoted to in-service courses and involvement with curriculum outcomes. It's a challenge to be part of a system that is showing commendable leadership in Ontario in this regard.

Teachers today are proving to be willing and equal to the task of adapting to the present needs of students and community. The nation's future is really in the care of the teacher, as is its youth and its culture. Teaching is not a job: it is a trust—one that must be shared with the public. Schools are a part of the community at large—not isolated from it. We must communicate with one another, share ideas, control prejudices, and work to try to understand each other's needs within this complex society.

OPP Report

During the past week officers from the Madoc Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated ten accidents. One person was sent to Belleville General Hospital. Two persons were charged and damages amounted to $11,560.00.

There were two reports of Wilful Damage. Five reports of theft. Three complaints of Break, Enter and Theft.

Five persons were charged under the Liquor Licence Act for having liquor. There were five persons charged with Impaired Driving. Two juveniles were reported missing.

Approximately 49 other occurrences were investigated by the Madoc Detachment, such as erratic driving, property checks, traffic control, etc.

Holiday Accidents

Poor driving conditions caused a number of accidents prior to Christmas but none resulted in any serious charges being laid.

On Dec. 23, Patsy Cronkright of RR1, Thomasburg and Clarence Plumpton of Aylmer, Que. struck each other when trying to round a sharp curve on concession 3 near concession 4 in Hungerford Township. There were no injuries and a total of $600 damages.

A similar accident took place the same day in Elzevir Township on Hastings County Rd. 2 north of Highway 7. Gary McLukie of RR1, Clinton and Charles Somerville of Clinton struck each other on a curve on a bridge. There was a total of $1800 damage but no personal injuries.

On the 24th on concession 5 in Hungerford Township David Maines of RR1, Thomasburg struck a snowbank and went over a steep embankment after being unable to negotiate a turn. Damage was estimated at $400.

Also on the 24th in Huntingdon Township, Ronnie Moon of Madoc was going south on Highway 62 near Ivanhoe. He did not see the vehicle of Barton Haggerty of RR 2, Stirling, in the fog, and struck his right rear fender. There was a total of $1,800 to the two vehicles. Mr. Haggerty was charged with not wearing his seatbelt. There were no injuries.

Break and enter

Edith Bishop of McGill St., Marmora, reported that her house was broken into between 7 and 11 p.m. Boxing Day. There was nothing taken and damage was estimated at $10.

Pet of the week

Tia is a two year old black Labrador belonging to the Douglas' of St. Lawrence St. E., Madoc. Her father was a field champion. She likes to please her family and protect them and she demands lots of affection in return. If she feels you are not giving her enough attention then she will steal your slipper and keep it until you do. When she is out of doors she loves to fetch sticks and is a great jumper and swimmer.

Come to Church this Sunday

It would be a great lift to the spirit for our pastor and the other members of the congregation to which we adhere if we did come to church this Sunday. Church-going, however, is not what is primarily on the writer's mind. The day we normally receive our Madoc Review and read this article is Wednesday. This week it falls midway between Christmas and New Year's. Perhaps, therefore, this is a perfect time for looking first backwards, and then forwards.

As we begin to look backwards the first things we remember are the joys of Christmas. We would all do well to thank all those folk who made this a time of blessing. Let us remember the stores and homes whose owners had decorated them so beautifully and the one which filled the downtown with Christmas music. Let us remember the nice people, some of whose names we were not always sure, who offered their best wishes. We remember, for sure, those who so thoughtfully and generously included us in their good times. We remember in a special way those of our own congregations who with their children, came to the church to honor the babe laid in a manger and to receive in their hearts a little of his joy and peace. In a way, all the things that happen at Christmas are special but much of the same sort of things happen throughout the year. We all have a great deal for which to thank the Lord who lets us live in such a lovely part of the country. We enjoy the kind of living that can make great people.

This is a time, also, for looking ahead. As we know we are entering into a special year, Madoc's Centennial. We have our queen already and a calendar and a host of events planned. None of us are prophets, therefore, we cannot see exactly what we shall be able to accomplish. All we can do, for the moment, is make up our minds that we shall do our part to make this a year to remember.

As I think about the months to come I have in my mind the parable that Jesus told at the conclusion of the Sermon on the Mount. He described two houses, one built on sand and the other on rock. When the storms came the one built on the firm foundation stood; the other did not. Then my mind goes on to recall the firm foundations on which Jesus founded all that He did. He made time for inspiration, time for learning and time for doing. In other words, by His own example, Jesus taught that there are three essential ingredients: worship, education and projects. We who hope for a good 1978 do well to remember this as we make our plans - for anything.

Gordon S.J. Adams,
United Church of Canada.

Centennials Bow to Colborne 9-7 in close game

On Fri., Dec. 23, Colborne played against the Madoc Junior "D" Centennials and defeated the local squad 9-7.

Madoc jumped into a two goal lead on markers by Art Nicholas from McDonald and Nickle, and Ed Grills from Harley Willemssen and Andy Roy. Colborne scored the third and fourth goals before Gaylord scored from Johnston to put Madoc back into the lead.

Colborne then jumped into a three goal lead by scoring four consecutive goals. Madoc closed the gap on a goal by Harry Grills from Nicholas and Nickle before

Madoc then scored two goals by Robert Nickle from Andy Roy, and Art Nicholas from McDonald and Bob Willemssen. Colborne replied with two goals of their own before Madoc closed out the scoring on a goal by Stephens from Andy Roy.

Mrs. Chris McCann won the six foot Christmas stocking donated by the Madoc Junior Hockey Booster Club. The Centennials next home game is Sun., Jan. 1 at 2:30 p.m. when they host the second place Bancroft Jets.

Art Nicholas, who scored twice and assisted on another marker, takes a shot at the Colborne goal tender. Nicholas played a good two way game for the local squad.
